New Stand Taken By Reds

BERLIN (UPI) — The U.S. army yesterday ordered a fresh company of troops into West Berlin in the wake of new Communist claims that Allied access rights to the isolated city no longer exist.

The army said Company "A" of the 20th Engineer Battalion — recently ordered to Europe from the United States — will move to Berlin on the autobahn lifeline across East Germany to replace Company "D" of the 12th Engineer Battalion there.

TROOPS LEAVE

The announcement said five truck loads of troops from Company "D" rode to the West Sunday on the Berlin-Helmstedt highway and others will follow daily.

'BY INCREMENTS'

The troop exchange will take place "by increments," the army said. Informal sources said these movements of troops units both east and west on the highway from Berlin to the west indicated U.S. determination to continue demonstrating Allied ground access rights with combat vehicles.

'ONLY TEMPORARY'

The East German foreign affairs bulletin, distributed in East Berlin yesterday, said Allied Berlin access rights were of a "temporary and limited nature" and were valid no longer. It referred specifically to routes by land and air.

The army announcement of the ordered troop movement came as U.S. officials disclosed fresh Soviet harassment along West Berlin's autobahn lifeline with West Germany.

Queen May Call For More Troops

LONDON (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth will call on Parliament today to speed up the flow of British troops overseas and to stem the flood of migrants from Commonwealth nations, political sources said yesterday.

The sources said the requests will be contained in the traditional speech — written by the party in power — which is read by the British monarch to the opening session of Parliament.

MACMILLAN CONCERNED

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is concerned over the government's limited power to call up army reserves in emergencies, the sources said. Especially vital now is the need to bolster the undermanned British Army of the Rhine in West Germany.

PLAN FROM U.S.

British newspapers said the stepped-up drive to bring the 50,000-man army up to full strength in view of the Berlin crisis is being made in response to a plea from U.S. deputy defence secretary Roswell Gilpatric.

CITE OPPOSED

Gilpatric returned to Washington last night after conferring with British Defence Minister Harold Watkinson.

The Opposition Labor party is expected to support Macmillan on the troop issue. But the socialists will oppose any attempt by the Conservative government to curb the flow of migrants from the Commonwealth nations.

Firemen On Spot

KAMLOOPS (UPI) — Firemen on duty at Kamloops fire hall didn't have far to go to control a fire Sunday.

Duty men sleeping in the hall were awakened by a crashing sound. They found chesters, curtains and window frames in the recreation hall ablaze.

Congo 'War' Starts

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Fighting has broken out between central government and Katanga troops and Premier Cyrille Adoula announced Monday a virtual declaration of war against the secessionist province.

The moderate premier of the Leopoldville government said a police action had been launched to liquidate Katanga's secession.

PLANES IN ACTION

Reports from Elisabethville, capital of Katanga, said Katanga planes had gone into action to help a company of troops fighting about 500 central government invaders at Kizamba, a border town in the northern part of the province.

United Nations officers in a report to Leopoldville said two Katanga province villages in central government territory were set afire by two Katanga bombers north of the fighting zone Sunday.

HEART CONDITION

Tahombe is in Geneva, ostensibly to see a doctor about a heart condition.

Unofficial sources in Elisabethville said a Congolese force was advancing on Nyunzu, a report to Leopoldville said two Katanga town 300 miles north-east of Kizamba on the border with Kivu.

Girl, 5, Shot By Boy, 5

NEW WESTMINSTER (UPI) — Lynn Atkinson, 5, of Bardia, was in good condition in hospital Monday with a head wound, suffered when creased by a slug from a 12-gauge shotgun fired by a five-year-old neighbor boy.

RCMP said the solid slug travelled about 500 feet across the road from the neighbor's yard, smashed through a wall and entered Lynn's bedroom where she sat on her bed.

GIANT RED BLAST CALLED MADNESS

Terror Tactic — Kennedy

(By AP and CP)

An angry free world deplored the Soviet super-bomb Monday as "a great leap backward toward anarchy and disaster."

Reacting with unusual swiftness, spokesmen for governments around the globe expressed shock and indignation at the Soviet 50-plus megaton explosion, carried out in defiance of an appeal from the United Nations General Assembly.

President Kennedy called the blast "a political rather than a military act." He described the Russian test as "primarily an incitement to fright and panic in the cold war" and said it does not affect the basic balance of nuclear power.

'LEAP BACKWARD'

At the United Nations, U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson said the U.S. delegation "deeply deplores this contempt for world opinion . . . The world has taken a great leap backward toward anarchy and disaster."

'WANTON DISREGARD'

In London, the foreign office said Britain "deplored" the explosion and shared "the indignation which will be universally felt at this wanton disregard for the welfare and safety of the human race."

'INSANE DECISION'

'REDS RESPONSIBLE'

The Dutch government said it "holds the Soviet Union responsible for the poisoning of the atmosphere."

The Scandinavian countries were unanimous in criticism, and even in Finland, Russia's tiny neighbor, there were protests.

'DEEPLY WORRIED'

Swedish Prime Minister Tage Erlander said that the explosion was the only answer he had received to his appeal to Khrushchev to call off the test.

Danish Prime Minister Viggo Kampmann said he had hoped the Soviet Union would refrain from exploding its huge weapon. Now, he said, "I can only say I am deeply worried."

First reaction among African nations came from President Hubert Maga of Dahomey. He said: "The arms race is a race to disaster."

West's Policy May Change Says Green

OTTAWA (CP) — The Western world may have to take a new look at its policies in dealing with Russia as a result of Moscow's "utter irresponsibility" in proceeding with nuclear tests, acting prime minister Howard Green said Monday.

In Tokyo, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he was shocked by Russia's monstrous disregard for the thinking of humanity in exploding the super-bomb.

He said that if Soviet nuclear explosions are intended to cause division among NATO nations, they have not succeeded.

Mr. Green did not elaborate on the suggestion that Western policy may need changes, and said there was no decision yet on Canada's next step.

Sending a protest note to Russia probably would be useless.

"As for the next steps, I'm not in a position to say at the moment what can be done, but Canada will do her best to bring some sanity back into this old world of ours," he said.

"BACKWARD STEP"

Mr. Green, who presided at a cabinet meeting, told reporters that the explosion in the Russian Arctic Monday was a backward step demonstrating Russia's total disregard for world opinion.

ACTION URGED

Liberal leader Lester Pearson said in Toronto that Russia should be formally condemned by the United Nations.

He called on Canada to take the lead in organizing such an action, which would label the test a new form of aggression.

He termed the Soviet action "a crime against humanity."

Russia Broke Pact To Perfect Bomb

WACO, Tex. (UPI) — Dr. Edward Teller, "father of the H-bomb," charged yesterday that the Russians made many underground nuclear tests in violation of the three-year agreement on atomic experiments.

He said the proof is the 50-megaton device they exploded yesterday. He said they could not have exploded it without undetected tests.

"It would have required months and even as long as a year to get ready for this test," Teller said at a news conference.

'PIECE OF PROGRESS'

Teller said the detonation of "such a big bomb certainly is a piece of progress, but very likely this is by no means the most important part."

"It is possible that they have tried out new principles developed in previous undetected experiments," Teller said.

'EXPONENTIAL'

He said these new principles made it "highly likely" the Soviets have developed an anti-missile missile.

"Such a development is particularly dangerous for us because it deprives us of the power to retaliate and exposes us to blackmail," Teller said.

U.S. High-Level A-Tests Now 'Must' Says Senator

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Henry Jackson, chairman of the Congress committee on atomic weapons, said yesterday the United States will have to resume nuclear tests in the atmosphere for the sake of security.

"We'll have to," he said. "There can be no question that the Soviets are improving the sophistication of their warheads to the point that the long lead we have may be in jeopardy."

The Washington Democrat said that the United States would not need a lot of tests, "and they would be of low yield."

Sen. Jackson called the Pentagon decision to halt H2 jet bomber production next year a "mistake" in the early phase of the nuclear missile era.

He made it clear he regarded the plans capable of delivering big nuclear bombs as "devastating" tool to be retained in the face of Russia's new atomic tests.

He took sharp issue with Defence Secretary Robert McNamara's announcement that the $700,000,000 voted by Congress for B32, B70 and dynamo space glider programs would not be used.

Stalin Suffers Ultimate Disgrace

The move was a foreseen result of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's embittered public denunciation last week of Stalin's crimes, which took the lives of thousands of Soviet citizens during three decades.

Khrushchev's recitation of the catalogue of Stalin's evils whipped public opinion into a state of frenzy and led to a wave of mass meetings demanding the end of the deification of Lenin by having Stalin share the mausoleum, the Soviet Union's most holy shrine.

A resolution demanding the removal of the body was swiftly and unanimously passed at Monday morning's session of the congress. Passage brought cries of: "This is correct, this is right," from all parts of the hall.

Stalin died in March, 1953, presenting his successors with the problem of disposing of his body.

It took no less than five months to reach the decision to place it by the side of Lenin's body.

Stalin's closest associates, former foreign minister V. M. Molotov and former premier Georgi Malenkov, controlled a majority of the party presidium and imposed their will upon Khrushchev, who always favored Stalin's burial elsewhere.

It is a matter of speculation

what will be done with Stalin's body, but there are three possibilities:

● Burial in Moscow's Novo-Devichy cemetery, where some of his victims lie. This, however, might involve the risk of desecration.

● Sending the body to Stalin's native village of Gori in the Caucasus.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

Chalk up another victory for the scientists. They've just made a breakthrough in the field of English. Before me lies Webster's Third New International Dictionary, latest revision of the great ultimate authority on English, replacing the second edition which appeared back in 1934.

Until this new revision, scientists in the field of English were up against an enormous handicap. Whenever they presented their findings on English grammar and usage, there was the great authoritative work, saying exactly the opposite.

Not any more. The editorial staff of the G. & C. Merriam Co. in Springfield, Mass., has weighed sides and their new third edition is as up-to-date scientifically as space satellites and computing machines.

You'll Be Amazed

Look up some of the famous controversial usages in the old edition and the new, and you'll be amazed at what you'll find.

"It's me," for instance. Webster (1934) said grudgingly: "The use of me for I, although avoided in formal writing and by precise speakers, is frequent in colloquial and dialectal speech."

Webster (1961) leans the other way: "Used by speakers on all educational levels and by many reputable writers, though disapproved by some grammarians."

Or take "Who do you know?" Webster (1934) says with a frown of disapproval: "Use of who for whom as object, though ungrammatical, is common colloquially and still found in good writers."

Webster (1961) says again calmly: "Used by speakers on all educational levels and by many reputable writers, though disapproved by some grammarians."

Or look at what's happened to "He don't." Webster (1934) had nothing but disdain: "Sometimes loosely used." It said.

Heartily Approved

Webster (1961) heartily approves. "Often used by cultivated speakers though the construction is sometimes objected to."

Finally, compare the two dictionaries on like as a conjunction, as in "Winston tastes good like a cigarette should."

Webster (1934) was adamant: "Freely used only in illiterate speech and now regarded as incorrect."

Webster (1961) has left all doubts behind and treats the conjunction like as a standard word, without bothering about objections. Its usage examples include Art Linkletter, who said, "Impromptu programs where they ask questions much like I do on the air," and the magazine, Reason, which wrote, "The violin now sounds like an old masterpiece simulacrum."

From now on, if someone accuses you of using bad grammar, hold your head up high and remember that Webster's Third New International Dictionary backs you up.

Your Good Health

Give Your Children A Good Night's Sleep

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: My granddaughter is eight years old but very small for her age. She stays awake every night until she falls asleep from sheer exhaustion on the sofa, usually about 9:30 or 10 p.m. From 8 o'clock on she drives us all batty.

I told my daughter the child should get more sleep and she said, "Where do you get such nonsense?" What are the sleeping habits for children, please?—Outdated Gramma, Outdated Gramma.

If "Gramma" is out-dated, so am I, because nothing has changed the hours of sleep that children need. It seems certain this problem may cause her slow growth—coupled, perhaps, with poor eating habits.

An eight-year-old should be all tucked away by 9 o'clock, so she'll have 10 solid hours of sleep, assuming that she gets up around 7 a.m. Some children need even more.

I'm afraid the mother has, by lack of ordinary discipline, gotten the youngster settled into poor sleep habits. It isn't too late to begin instilling better habits, but it's going to require firmness on the mother's part for a time.

Mrs. H.B.: If a thunderstorm causes you to have "heart trouble," it seems to me the problem is more nervous than physical.

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter is 15 and so far hasn't had her period. Her face has broken out badly this last year. Could that be the cause of the delay?—Mrs. E.W.

Some delay in the beginning of the period is not too unusual. However, I'd suggest she be checked by your doctor to be sure no abnormality exists. Acne, breaking out of the skin, is not uncommon in adolescents but it wouldn't cause the delay.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter, who is now grown, broke her leg when she was ten. It slowed the growth and the leg is now two inches shorter than the other. We wonder if medical science has developed any new technique whereby the difference might be corrected. She wears a built-up shoe. Would there be any danger in not wearing it any more?—E.M."

It is possible to shorten a limb now, but it is an extensive surgical operation and whether you can find an orthopedic surgeon to perform the operation is another question. As to the built-up shoe, I would think it wise to keep on using it, to keep the body and spine at relatively normal angle.

Herring Fishers Reduce Demands

VANCOUVER (CP) — The negotiating committee for striking B.C. herring fishermen Monday reduced its demands to $12 from $13 a ton but the Fisheries Association gave no immediate indication whether the offer will be accepted or rejected.

About 1,000 herring fishermen and shore workers are engaged in the strike which went into effect more than a week ago. The association said Monday the economy of the province will lose about $3,000,000 in sales and wages if the strike continues until the season-end March 10.

Something CAN be done about seasonal unemployment in Canada; it can be cut almost in half by following a simple formula developed in Sweden, says a veteran Ottawa correspondent Michael Barkway in the current issue of The Star Weekly. Four out of ten men caught in winter lay-offs are construction workers who could be kept on the job if the Canadian government would follow the Swede's plan. RCMP Raid Rapped

Elusive Chinese Keeps Vow to Stay in Canada

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba Liberal leader Gildas Molgat said Monday he is checking complaints that the RCMP broke into a Chinese-Canadian couple's two-room suite here last week without producing a search warrant.

Mr. Molgat said preliminary information indicates the RCMP may have invaded the civil rights of Mr. and Mrs. Lai Dye Dong.

The couple's son, known as On Bing Dong, said two RCMP men first appeared at his parents' suite last Thursday and repeatedly asked that the door be opened.

He refused and they left. But later, he said, the police broke the night latch to gain entry.

At no time, the son said, did the police produce a search warrant. However lawyer Gerald Stubbs said he was informed they did have one. Mr. Molgat said there have been similar complaints from Chinese families across Canada.

OTTAWA (CP) — Weldon Chan, 41-year-old Chinese who vowed that he would never be deported to his native Hong Kong, has successfully eluded the RCMP and other police forces in Canada for two years.

Chan dropped from sight Nov. 2, 1959, the day before he, his wife and six-year-old daughter Alice were to be deported to Hong Kong by ship from Seattle. The family was judged by the immigration department to be in Canada illegally. He is believed possibly in a Canadian community with a large Chinese population.

Just What Is Nikita's Goal?

By DOUG MARSHALL

Western seers are working overtime on a favorite 20th century pastime—trying to divine the real meaning of Russian policies.

One the one hand Khrushchev appears bent on a policy designed to lose fast-weather friends and alienate uncommitted peoples. His quarrel with Albania, display of discord in Russian-Chinese relations and explosion of the 50-megaton nuclear bomb indicate a self-confident contempt for world opinion.

However, the decisions to investigate the purges of the 1930s, attack "anti-party" opponents and remove Stalin's body from the Red Square tomb suggest an internal conflict in Soviet politics.

The British think Khrushchev faces two basic problems. At home, he wants to start his 20-year expansion program; abroad, belated Allied toughness has convinced him the West means business over Berlin. He realizes Stalin's authoritarian doctrines, being championed by China, are out of date, as is the idea that war is inevitable.

He has no desire to force a showdown over Berlin and risk blowing up all Russia has achieved, so he has resur-ted the purges to show Stalin's "iron hand" methods were monstrous and silence China's criticisms that the Kremlin is "soft."

The mighty explosion diverts the Communist world's attention from a possible Berlin "defeat" and flourishes the supremacy of Khrushchevism over Stalinism.

Stalin's name soon will disappear from Lenin-Stalin tomb in Moscow's Red Square after Communist party congress said his body was "not worthy" to be there.

Russians Summon Molotov

VIENNA (UPI)—Former Soviet premier and foreign minister V. M. Molotov, under increasingly heavy fire from Moscow, was called into the Soviet embassy here Monday for long talks apparently concerning his future status.

Communist sources hinted Molotov might seek refuge in Red China.

Russia Exceeds Allies In Nuclear Violence

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Russia apparently has set off more nuclear violence in the whole atomic age than the U.S., Britain and France combined.

Roughly, the Soviets have detonated 160 megatons of energy since they first began tests. This includes 50 megatons in previous years, about 80 in the current series, and at least 30 today alone.

On the other hand it is estimated that the Big Three Western powers have tested weapons totalling somewhat less than 130 megatons. Russia's apparent edge in total power release stems from the fact they have set off more bigger bombs than the West.

The Soviets have conducted at least 96 tests since they first started. The U.S. total is at least 17, including the bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki in the Second World War. Britain has set off 21 nuclear devices and the French four—making a grand Western total of more than 130.

Tests Lit Up Frozen Wasteland

Novaya Zemlya, where the Soviets have been conducting their nuclear test series, is a frozen wasteland of glaciers. It consists of two large and some smaller islands stretching 620 miles long by 24 to 68 miles wide in the Arctic between the Barents and Kara Seas. One-quarter of the area is covered with ice.

What was done with the population, mostly Eskimo-type who live by hunting and fishing, during the tests is not known.

HERBAL OINTMENT

Overjoyed Reds Hail Last Rebuff To Josef Stalin

By ALINE MOSBY

MOSCOW (UPI)—Russians reacted with tears of joy Monday to the announcement that no longer is there room in Lenin's tomb for Josef Stalin's body.

Moscow Radio broadcast the news of the supreme symbolic act of Premier Khrushchev's de-Stalinization drive.

RED MECCA
Some Russians had heard of Moscow meetings passing resolutions asking for Stalin's removal from the Red Square granite mausoleum that is a mecca for the Communist world.

But the official broadcast triggered an instantaneous relief—as if Russia's past of terror and cruel dictatorships was over after centuries of czars and Stalin.

SO UNEXPECTED
"Pleased isn't the word for it. Say I'm overjoyed," said an educated Moscow woman. "It's so unexpected."

"This ends the Stalinist days once and for all. And after Khrushchev's wonderful speech promising he would never have a cult of personality, we Russians are looking forward to better lives."

LOTS OF VODKA
"It's so wonderful. We're going to drink lots of vodka tonight."

A Russian man said: "The Russian people approve of this act very much. Nearly every family suffered under Stalin—from purges, trials, camps and forced migrations." "It's a happy, happy day," said another.

WEEP FOR JOY
"People are weeping for joy," a woman said. But an elderly woman in the crowd outside the tomb asked: "Why take him out now? When he was alive nobody said anything against him." However, most citizens—especially the younger ones—in the square appeared almost gleeful.

Papal Palace Damaged

ROME (UPI)—A windstorm Monday ravaged the west coast of Italy near Rome, causing heavy damage to the summer palace of the Pope.

A Vatican communique said damage to the villa and gardens at the papal residence in Castel Gandolfo, 15 miles southeast of Rome, was "very high." Unofficial estimates ran to $1,600,000.

100 INJURED
Police listed two known dead and three others missing. At least 100 persons were reported injured by the gale-force winds. Several hundred were homeless.

In addition to Castel Gandolfo, the winds lashed nearby Pomezia, Albano and Ostia.

WALLS COLLAPSED
"Part of the roof was torn off, several internal walls collapsed... while the exterior of the building and gates were battered," said the Vatican. The gardens were wrecked, with countless trees uprooted and hothouses destroyed.

Superbomb Dwarfed By Nature

Russia's superbomb yesterday was man's biggest explosion—but it was dwarfed by nature's most devastating eruption in recent history.

The fourth and most severe triggered an atmospheric wave which circled the world seven times. Sound waves were heard up to 3,000 miles away. Tidal waves swept over much of the earth, taking 36,000 lives.

If you have a child, you're rich enough to need a FAMILY SECURITY CHECK-UP

You do not have to be rich—in dollars—to want the best for your child.

But to give him your best, you do have to plan wisely. And you can plan wisely only if you know the facts. Facts like these:

- Does your insurance provide for your children's education?
- Does it take your mortgage or rent payments into consideration?
- Will your insurance benefits be paid in the way that best suits your circumstances?

Metropolitan, the company you look to for authoritative information on physical health, now offers a way you can check your financial health—the Family Security Check-Up.

Call your Metropolitan man for a Family Security Check-Up. There's no obligation—except to those you love.

WHAT IT IS AND WHAT IT DOES FOR YOU

With the help of your Metropolitan man—

1. You check the facts: your pension plan, your home, your life insurance, your savings and other assets. You may be surprised to learn how much you're worth.
2. You weigh your responsibilities: mortgage or rent payments, education, retirement, accident and sickness emergencies; how much it would cost your family to live without you.
3. You learn where you stand. You determine your weak and strong points... whether the provisions you have made for your family will do what you intend. You get the facts in front of you.
4. You plan for the future. Based on these facts, you decide what action, if any, may be needed to give you a family security plan, tailor-made to your own needs and ambitions—one which makes good sense for you.

A Welcome Visitor

VICTORIA is glad to have in its midst even for a brief two days the welcome personage of Princess Alexandra of Kent, cousin of the Queen and an attractive figure in her own right. She represents a pleasant change from the sombre world events that dominate our attention so much.

The princess is here only en route to a royal assignment in the Far East but she expresses the courtesy of the House of Windsor and its kinship with the far-flung Commonwealth of which Queen Elizabeth is head.

Victorians will have the opportunity today of seeing this young princess at close quarters when she visits in sequence the Legislative Buildings and the City Hall, there to receive the official greetings of city and province. If the weather is fine citizens in general will be able to add their own welcome as the royal motorcade passes along downtown thoroughfares.

Royal visitors to this area are always a source of wide interest and appeal, and Princess Alexandra's own qualities of charm and grace enhance the present occasion.

Dangerous Contest

NEITHER the United States nor the Soviet Union appears willing to allow the present flood-peak of tension in Berlin to subside even to the unhappily high level now accepted as the norm.

For the past week American and Communist troops have been pointing their guns at each other over the East-West Berlin border while from distant Washington and Moscow their leaders indulge in a dangerous contest of out-thrusting the other.

The current dispute is over Allied rights of entry into East Berlin. The United States correctly maintains that Allied personnel have full right of access to the Communist governed sector at any time. The Soviet command, however, has consistently refused to take the American claim seriously and has referred the demand to the East German government for decision.

This cavalier attitude has led the American government to test its interpretation of the treaty governing the Allied occupation of Germany by supporting its contention with a show of force.

So for 16 hours U.S. tanks faced Russian tanks, ready for instant action. There for 16 hours a trigger-happy GI or a jittery Ivan could have plunged the world into another war—a monstrous possibility seemingly ignored by both the White House and the Kremlin.

Though at the end of the week the tanks withdrew, defensive positions on both sides remained fully manned, underlining the fact that the danger continues undiminished.

Such a demonstration of readiness may have appealed to both Washington and Moscow, but to the rest of the world it revealed something other than simply a military test of preparedness.

To observers in a number of uncommitted countries it meant that both sides were spoiling for a fight. To America's main allies, France and Britain, it meant a display of unwillingness by both sides to negotiate their differences, and most frightening of all, a complete lack of unity among the Allied powers with the United States determined to go its own way regardless of the cost and despite British and French appeals for caution.

Washington would be well advised to swallow its national pride and follow the British suggestion that it place the question of access upon the agenda of the Berlin talks slated to begin next month.

If it follows along its present course it could be courting disaster. It is one thing to be right—but it is another to be dead right.

Excellent Marks

THE RESULTS of voting on the school construction program give the ratepayers of the Greater Victoria school district excellent marks for good sense.

It was anticipated that on this occasion the three-year program would be approved. There was no doubt about the need for 110 new classrooms to accommodate the growing school population. For once there was practically no vociferation about "frills". It had become increasingly obvious over recent years that the way to protest against the existing provincial-municipal sharing of education costs was not to make a community a poorer place in which to live by voting against the construction of adequate schools.

But nevertheless there was reason to suppose that unthinking sectionalism combined with natural antipathy toward any increase in taxes might result in the margin of approval being of a far lesser order than it turned out to be.

It is a fine tribute to the common sense of the whole community, however, that the over-all majority in favor of the program was nearly 76 per cent, and particularly that more than 62 per cent of ratepayers who voted in Victoria city approved construction of new classrooms and acquisition of school sites which mostly will be beyond the city's borders.

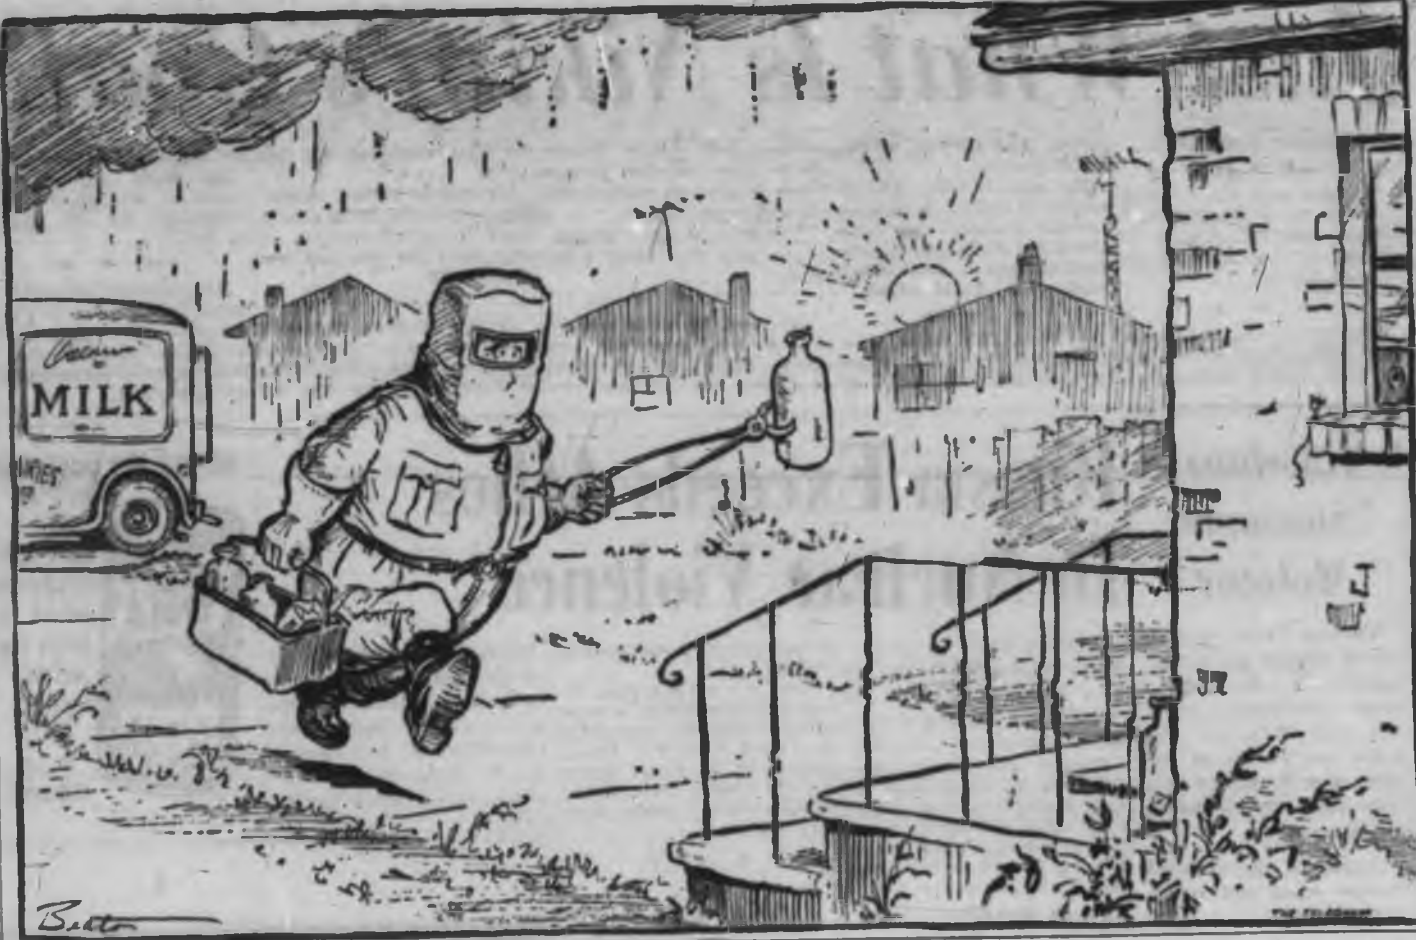

Wear a Poppy

FOR CANADIANS particularly, perhaps, the blood-red poppy of Flanders remembrance has special significance. It was John McRae's immortal lines that created the symbol which is a central theme of Remembrance Day observances.

The poppies go on sale this week, and a poppy is a badge of memory few citizens would care to be without. It bespeaks the continuing sentiment which now binds the dead of Canada in two world wars, and offers opportunity for gratitude and recall of those who died that others might live.

The poppies serve a mundane purpose also, and one which is in keeping with the loyalties and comradeship reflected in the annual pilgrimage of remembrance. They are made in Veterans workshops and provide employment for war veterans, and their sale enables assistance to be given to ex-service families in need.

Wear a poppy this week with pride and respect for all it represents as November 11 draws nigh.

Thinking Aloud

and sealing wax...

By TOM TAYLOR

IT is one of my fads that I read the sports pages of the varying newspapers that reach our office and so I noted with an uplift of spirit the list of English cricket fixtures for 1962 set forth in the Times of London. I did not read below the headlines; it was enough that such a herald of summer should lift the gloom of grey skies.

Of course this jumps the gun and I have before this deplored the fascination of the current age for tomorrow, as exemplified for example by the magazines bearing an advanced date and the aerodynamic efforts being made to beat the sun from coast to coast. But when it comes to weather, or the seasons, one must be permitted to be as inconsistent as the weatherman himself.

And to be truthful, I much prefer going home in daylight. How I wish Mr. Bennett would invoke double fast time all the year through. Give him his due, however, he has promised us a new year gift in the form of cheaper electricity bills and this is as summer-like a gesture as ever could be made late in October. It certainly lights one up a bit, as does the sun the sky.

Knowing that the sun is currently in the process of withdrawing its favor, however, one is apt to view the oncoming of winter with a somewhat unfriendly eye. I am not quite in the apprehensive mood of those who anticipate that because our summer season was impeccable we are bound to be "in for it" these next few months. But willingly I leap mentally forward when I read about next year's cricket fixtures. Frankly these flannelled chaps droop disconsolately often enough below sombre skies and liquid fallout—in Britain I mean—but they summon the glow of brighter days.

Shelley wasn't it who cheered us by saying that if winter comes then spring must be close behind and that too is a promise to assuage any winter of discontent. I doubt that even Shelley thought of printing next year's cricket fixtures before the present year's winter had arrived, but he belonged to a slower age.

For society time nowadays never stands still, as you know. Indeed it is in danger of suffering eclipse as witness the plane which crosses a Pacific longitude and wipes 24 hours off the slate as though it had never been there. It will be Remembrance Day soon, too, and for many a veteran, his heyday of half a century ago will seem like yesterday. Time in this instance is the past compressed instead of the future stolen before it arrives, but it is all symbolic of man's preference for arranging the schedules to suit his convenience; in his mind at least if not always on his physical surroundings.

All of the foregoing palaver simply means, if it means anything, that yours truly and I presume others too are wishing the crocuses were up and the days beginning to lengthen again. This is rank ingratitude, for winter hasn't sunk to its nadir yet and anyway it should brace and refresh us after the lengthy lotus language that has marked the summer of 1961.

And what is a little winter anyway and what's the hurry, jets or no jets. Whining one's life away like this is only for six-year-olds, and why should a cricket bat set such foolish thoughts loose. But perhaps I shouldn't blame the cricket fixtures.

Washington Calling

Immobilized Between Extremes

By MARQUIS CHILDS

IF over a president needed to have steady nerves and to detach himself as nearly as possible from the fierce pressures beating down on him it is the man who now occupies the White House.

His position is incredibly difficult. On the one hand he is imprisoned by allies who persistently refuse to see the need to begin a rational search for a way out of the Berlin crisis. On the other hand the wild irrationality of the Soviets in exploding the super bomb has set off a wave of fear and anger around the world.

Between these two extremes the president seems to be immobilized. He finds it hard even to communicate the nature of the trap in which he finds himself. If he talks publicly about the problem of the Allies the crack in the West wall will be widened. Almost anything he might say about Soviet action in spreading a new rain of radio-active fallout on helpless peoples would feed the fear and accentuate the frenzy.

Still another element has contributed to the sense of immobilization that this grim moment has brought. The Asians and Africans—the neutrals—in the United Nations have declined to stand up and be counted on the fallout threat and the menace of the Soviet tests in the atmosphere. And this raises a point being widely discussed in private at high-policy levels here.

On November 7 Prime Minister Nehru of India is coming to Washington on a state visit. This is considered as perhaps the most important of the long succession of visits that have so occupied the president's time. Under Nehru's direction India is seeking to follow the path of freedom as against the example of Red China, which is a totalitarian regime enforcing with the utmost ruthlessness an extreme form of collectivism. The United States, along with Britain and other Western powers, has done a great deal to help in the vast experiment India is undertaking.

Yet India's delegate to the United Nations, V. K. Krishna Menon, the minister of defence, has contributed perhaps more than any single individual to frustrating the Western effort to get a strong resolution on nuclear testing. While no official will say it out loud the Indian effort seems calculated to give the Soviets an out and at the same time to embarrass the country if and when the president decides it is essential to conduct American tests in the atmosphere.

The resolution put forward by India proposed a new uncontrolled moratorium on all tests. The adoption of this resolution could coincide with the end of the present series of Soviet tests. Then with fine self-righteousness—the Communist bloc peoples have never been told of the current test series—they could agree to abide by the moratorium and try to turn the propaganda knife against the United States for continuing to test.

It has become clear that during the uncontrolled moratorium, which lasted more than two and a-half years, the Soviets went ahead with the most elaborate preparations to carry out their present test series. With the exception of preparing for underground tests, which do not pollute the atmosphere, the U.S. strictly observed the conditions of the moratorium. The president has said that he will never again agree to such an uncontrolled and uninspected moratorium.

The resolution put forward by the United States and Britain calls for agreement to a draft treaty that would outlaw all tests under inspection and control. The draft treaty submitted by the two Western nuclear powers embodies all the 18 articles which have been agreed to, along with parts of additional articles accepted at Geneva before the Soviets reversed their position and came out against any inspection and control.

Arthur Dean, head of the American delegation at the Geneva test talks, has declared that such a treaty could be ratified within 30 days. That may be a slight exaggeration but it is surely true, as Krishna Menon is said to have led many delegates to believe, that the test-ban treaty would be as hopeless to obtain as general and complete disarmament.

Courageous leadership by India could have swung the balance in the view of officials who have been observing the struggle at firsthand. Similarly, Indian influence would have made it much easier to get a suitable solution of the dispute over an acting secretary-general that now seems to have been resolved.

No one questions Nehru's right to keep his old and close friend, Krishna Menon, at the head of the delegation at the UN. What makes the situation more paradoxical is that Indian newspapers have expressed widespread condemnation of the Soviet tests and the fallout danger resulting from them. The unspoken question in the minds of his hosts when the prime minister comes here next month will be with respect to the double standard of stern denunciation for the United States as so often in the past, and turning the other cheek to the Soviet transgressor.

DATELINE: Europe

Decisive Moment Ahead

By OTTO VON HAMBURG

THE deterioration of the Berlin crisis has evoked conflicting opinions among Free World politicians which please Communist propagandists and sows confusion in our ranks.

We thus have certain Americans and Britons who seem to want to save Berlin by sacrificing essential interests of the German Federal Republic.

For the West, and above all for the United States, Berlin is mainly a matter of prestige. Of course, this is psychologically important. Nevertheless one should keep in mind that especially since the building of the Ulbricht wall, the former German capital is no longer a decisive strategic object.

The Federal Republic is quite another matter. The country is economically and militarily one of NATO's key positions. Its loss would render Europe north of the Pyrenees hard to defend.

We hear of Western concessions. It is unthinkable to make any on Berlin proper.

Under these conditions any concessions would have to be made by the Federal Republic. British circles talk of recognition of the so-called German Democratic Republic, a decision which would jeopardize Bonn's juridical basis. Furthermore, German acceptance of the Oder-Neisse line is demanded, though this would be in contradiction to the previously suggested step. It is finally whispered that assurance ought to be given to the Soviets on the limitation of German armament.

This would fatally weaken NATO and re-establish the inequality between the winners and vanquished of 1945, an old Soviet dream.

Any of these concessions would profoundly shake the structure of the Federal Republic. They would not save Berlin. The Russians would raise the question anew after having consolidated their recent gains. Any Western withdrawal would spell disaster in Europe. Germany's spectacular rise under Chancellor Adenauer is much too recent to stand already on firm ground. To submit the young Bonn Republic to a grueling test under these conditions would mean courting a major catastrophe. Confidence in NATO would be deeply shaken everywhere, Italy, which is passing through a dangerous political crisis, would probably succumb to neutralist temptation.

Once again, we approach a decisive moment. The Free World can only prevail if it refuses to give in to Soviet blackmail. The alternative—war or appeasement—is false. Only a firm stand can save international peace.

The Packneck

Not Learning Much

By GREGORY CLARK

ON a late bus last night there were only two or three passengers when a young man got aboard, carrying an armful of textbooks. He was a big, heavyset youth with a sombre and studious expression on his face. As he sat across from me, I tried to figure out what textbooks he had, what subjects he was studying.

Was he attending right classes? Maybe before me I had a man of destiny in the making.

After a few moments, he felt in his pocket and drew out an orange. He bit it to start the peeling process, and then picked off the skin, piece by piece. And to my astonishment, simply threw the pieces on the floor of the bus.

I have often wondered where all the trash comes from that we see on the floors of buses and trains and in public places.

It seems to me whatever that somber young man learns from his textbooks, it won't be much. Not much as far as his fellow beings are concerned.

Signs Awaited

By ARTHUR BLAKELY

WITH the next national election date somewhere close at hand, arrivals and departures at Government House are being watched with alert interest for any signs of a meeting of significance between His Excellency the Governor-General and Prime Minister Diefenbaker. The nation's election machinery is set in motion when the prime minister advises the governor-general formally to dissolve Parliament. A simple luncheon caused a brief flurry for an hour or so until it could be defined as nothing more than that.

PROGRAM: Whispers in government circles is that members of the cabinet are working overtime on a legislative program for the next session of Parliament likely to catch the eye of voters in every region of Canada. Into the bag will go attractive items that have been devised specially for the purpose or that have been considered earlier and shelved.

ANCIENT HISTORY: An exception in a piece of legislation that would have been welcomed in the Maritimes. When Public Works Minister David Walker announced in a full statement that the government would not proceed with the Chignecto Canal project because it was "very unsound economically," he was writing off the oldest unperformed public works project in Canadian history. The canal project made its first appearance in history centuries ago when an early Intendant of New France reported to Louis XIV that it was a desirable and practical possibility.

COLUMBIA: The federal government still hasn't given up hope on the Columbia River project, though time, and American patience, are running short. Whether successfully or not, Ottawa has been pursuing a course of patient moderation on the off-chance that B.C.'s Premier W. A. C. Bennett may yet decide to co-operate in the search for a mutually satisfactory compromise settlement of federal-provincial differences. But it is also assumed that the premier, a shrewd politician, is not likely to be interested in any real bargaining until after the next election, if then.

SECURITY: Canadian security authorities, who follow the fortunes of Canada's Communist Party with more than passing interest, say that the Commies are finding it more difficult to enlist rank-and-file than they have for some time. The reason, they say, is the U.S.S.R.'s resumption of nuclear tests, a development which potential recruits tend to view with disfavor. The problem is of the same type, though in much less drastic form, as that experienced by the party in the wake of the Hungarian Revolt.

LABOR: Pressure is still building up within the large and growing federal civil service for the concession, by the government, of full collective bargaining rights. Most civil service organizations interested in the project would be quite willing to give in exchange an unequivocal no-strike undertaking. Officials of some of the organizations have been roundly criticized for alleged failure to press the project hard enough to secure results. The government, meanwhile, has been looking over the compromise system adopted in Britain.

With the Classics

On the deck the Rover takes his stand.

So dark it is they see no land.

Quoth Sir Ralph, 'T will be lighter soon.

For there is the dawn of the rising moon.

'Canst hear,' said one, 'the breakers roar?'

For methinks we should be near the shore.'

'Now where we are I cannot tell.

But I wish I could hear the Inchcape Bell.'

They hear no sound, the swell is strong;

Though the wind hath fallen they drift along.

'Oh Christ! 'Tis the Inchcape Rock!'

Good Idea

I read the article by Vivienne Chadwick in the magazine section always with interest and was particularly impressed with the one Oct. 22. Her idea of transforming a little bit of old Chinatown from an "arid alley" into an oasis for old people whose only source of income is the old age pension of $35 a month seems to me an excellent one. Her arguments in favor of such a proposition are commendable and deserve investigation.

There are big-hearted organizations in this city who might undertake that. As she says, it could be "beautiful, useful and unique."

Cheaper Way

The Sacred women's auxiliary should be commended by a grateful public for its unanimous resolution to end, in one fell swoop, both a political embarrassment and a highway menace. But since this would entail three private chauffeurs for shift work, pilots, maintenance staff, etc., the bills might be a little higher than we grateful vasaals can afford.

There is a happier and cheaper solution more in keeping with Social Credit policy. Let Mr. Bennett instruct his obedient minions to bulldoze through another special act, this time to provide that:

- Mr. Gagliardi shall be exempt from prosecution whilst on his highways.
- The manner in which Mr. Gagliardi drives shall not be deemed a menace.
- There shall be no appeal from the provisions of this act.

ROBIN DUNSMUIR.

Why Not Tico?

Reading in your paper of Friday what the women's auxiliary would recommend in their resolution calling on the government to provide a chauffeur and helicopter why not give the minister two cars also an extra chauffeur, one being in "reserve" when needed—once more calling on the taxpayer.

The police are to be congratulated in doing the duty even to a minister who should be setting an example to others when driving his car on the highway.

The Takeover

I have been given to understand that some of the investment and financial experts of Victoria are of the opinion that a general meeting should be called of the shareholders of the B.C. Electric common shares in order that they may have the opportunity of discussing the matter of the takeover and stating their opinions. Surely this should be done?

E. J. McLOUGHLIN.

Price of Shares

No one knows better than Mr. Bennett that it is untrue to say the price of shares on the stock exchange represents the true value of the property owned by the company. The price of shares is governed by the amount of dividend expected to be declared by the directors, not by the value of the property owned. Why distort obvious truth?

A. P. RAINEY.

Kind People

I would appreciate, if through the medium of your paper, I may say a sincere "thank you" to the anonymous lady—or gentleman—who found my wallet and so kindly returned it to me—intact.

This is another proof of the inherent kindness of the people of Victoria.

Data Needed

A cry for help! Can any of your readers give me any data on a whaling station which has been proved to exist some time previous to 1888?

The survey ship "Egeria," in 1898, showed on sketches for survey of Hornoy Island an "old whaling station" and the bay is to this day known as "Whaling Station Bay." Any help will be greatly appreciated.

Inconsistent

In the Colonist Dr. Keenleyside, with his customary inconsistency, laments the "axing of Okanagan orchards" by unplanned building interests. Last week he was equally ardently promoting the drowning of twice the Okanagan acreage in the fertile Arrow Lakes Valley.

In a much more real sense could this be termed Los Angelization of Canadian land since the drowned acreage would be drowned almost exclusively for United States interests.

In British Columbia prime land is at a premium wherever it is and Dr. Keenleyside as one of its custodians should be its consistent guardian.

Thief Disputes Safe's Contents

Theft of a safe from an Esquimalt store early this month was partially cleared up yesterday when Donald Raymond Gray, no fixed address, pleaded guilty to breaking, entering and theft in Esquimalt police court.

Chief Const. Gilbert Stancombe told the court the store at 889 Esquimalt, was entered during the night of Oct. 23 and the safe stolen. Police believe there was more than one thief. Later the safe was found in the Mount Douglas area, broken open, and $385 stolen from it. None of the money was recovered.

Acting Magistrate J. A. Biers asked Gray if he had any questions to ask the chief. "I have nothing to say, except there wasn't much money in the safe," Gray said. "How much was there?" "Only $280," he replied.

In city court yesterday Victoria realtor John Blair was given four more five-year penitentiary terms to be served concurrently with one he received in Supreme Court last week.

Blair had pleaded guilty earlier to three charges of theft by conversion and one of false pretences, totalling more than $13,000.

Two men pleaded guilty to driving while impaired when they appeared in Oak Bay and city courts yesterday.

In Oak Bay court Edward Fahman, 2723 Prior, was fined $250 and prohibited from driving in Canada for three months.

Police said he was found asleep at the wheel of his car Sunday at 4 a.m., with the car against the front step of a house at 2935 Beach Drive. He said he had no idea how he got there.

In city court, Neville Brydges, 916 Inskip, was sentenced to 14 days in jail for his second such offence.

Court was told his car was seen at 8:15 p.m. Saturday in mid-street at Pembroke and Store, with Brydges slumped over on the front seat.

Seven Hurt in Crashes

Seven people suffered in Canada Highway near Port Saanich, none major, in two highway accidents Sunday in Saanich.

At 12:10 a.m. cars driven by Bernard Whippa, 85 Belmont, and Roy Makara, 18 Stillwater, collided on Trans-

Canada Highway near Port Saanich.

Mr. Makara sustained a broken leg, his wife head injuries, and Mr. Whippa facial cuts. All were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. Mr. Makara was later transferred to HMCS Naden hospital and the others were released.

Second crash occurred about 3:05 p.m. at Trans-Canada and Douglas Street.

Cars in this case were driven by Howard Willard, Vancouver, and Frederick Saunders, Nanaimo. Saunders and his passengers—his wife Jean, Mr. and Mrs. L. Black and Lloyd Bertram—were all taken to St. Joseph's for treatment of minor injuries and released.

Damage to both cars in both accidents totalled about $900.

He's Available

After 17 years of carrying bags and generally looking after guests at Empress Hotel, Steve Weston, 913 Cowichan Street, retired yesterday. He plans to do a little puttering around the house during his new-found leisure time, but if any jobs should come up he'll be available. "I'm still a young man," says 66-year-old ex-captain of porters.—(Ryan Bros. photo.)

We Offer The Earth Socialist

Under Socialism, capitalists will be expropriated, a Socialist party spokesman told a meeting at Dulcie Hall, Sunday night.

This means they would cease to live as parasites and start to live as human beings," said James Milne of Winnipeg, a member of the Dominion executive committee of the Socialist Party of Canada.

"Capitalism accentuates the age-old problem of class society such as poverty, crime and war. Socialism, being a classless society, will solve these problems," he said.

"Socialists do not offer the moon, but they do offer the earth, and if this offer is not taken up soon there may not be an earth to offer," he said.

How to own two cars and still make ends meet.

Buy two Volkswagens. You go your way. She goes her way. And your budget won't know the difference.

Here's why: two Volkswagens will cost you less than one conventional car.

Think we're kidding?

Let's get serious:

The V.V. gets 38 miles to a gallon of gas. (More on the highway, a little less in traffic.) You'll never add oil between changes, and when it is time for a change, four and a half pints will do it.

You'll never need anti-freeze because the VW has no radiator. The engine is cooled with air. (Don't worry if you have two Volkswagens and one garage. The VW can't freeze.)

A Volkswagen can be repaired faster for less money. For example, we don't replace half the car to correct a crumpled fender. We can bolt on a new one in minutes.

You may be surprised how little it costs to buy a Volkswagen*. We've been able to keep the price low because we never change the basic VW design. We just keep making it better.

Any dealer who sells two cars for the price of one deserves recognition. And a visit.

Industrials Make Gains Near Close

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials had their biggest rise on index since Sept. 13 and speculative shares brightly during heavy trading. Industrials gained 3.75 to 506.33, mainly on the basis of strong gains among banks and financial institutions, utilities, papers and steel.

Leader in speculatives was Salsbery, which more than doubled its price and finished the day at 37, ahead 19 1/2.

MacMillan-Bloedel featured papers with a rise to a new high of 18 1/2 in heavy trading. The senior base metals list was strong. International Nickel gained $2 to 82 1/2.

Western oil trading was steady with Home A and B. Hudson's Bay, Dome and Great Plains all ahead small fractions.

Papers Surge
MONTREAL (CP) — Banks, papers and senior base metals all gained substantially in a generally firmer market.

In the resurgent papers, Bathurst A rose one point to 54, Abitibi gained $1 to 38 1/2. International Nickel led the strong base metals with a rise of two points to 82 1/2. Hudson's Bay at $2 1/2 improved.

Utilities were mixed on small volume. Power Corporation fell 1/2 to 56 1/2. Dominion Bridge fell one point to 21 on a turnover of 3,765 shares and Trans-Canada Pipelines fell 1/2 to 22 1/2.

In mines Mercury-Chatman was up 13 cents to 65 cents. In western oils, Royalite fell 1/2 to 12 1/2.

Irregular Advance
NEW YORK (AP) — Selective strength developed in utilities and industrials to give the stock market an irregular advance. Trading was moderate.

Big three motors produced moderate gains.

Last week Finance Minister Donald Fleming said the Canadian dollar was not pegged at a three per cent discount, but that it might go lower.

The minister spoke like an oracle for yesterday the Canadian dollar dropped a quarter-cent to a discount of 3 1/2 cents of the U.S. dollar—the first significant move it has made in a month.

The effect was sharp on the stock market. Shares of companies in the chief export industries rose rapidly. Among the gainers were papers, pulp and base metals.

COOPERATION NEEDED

A suggestion that government, industry and labor should get together on a summit level with a view to cutting costs was made by Allan Taylor, president of Huron and Erie-Canada Trust, in an interview in Victoria yesterday.

The long-term problems confronting the Canadian economy were considerable, in his opinion, and important steps would have to be taken in the near future if Canada was to maintain and develop its vital export trade.

In view of the Common Market developments, he thought the formation of new trading alliances for Canada was inevitable. The 18,500,000 people of Canada who depend so much on exports, cannot hope to go it alone.

Mr. Taylor added that trading alliances alone were not enough and that Canada would also have to get into a price bracket that would enable us to compete in world markets.

"No single segment of the country is responsible entirely for our costs difficulties," he said. "In industry our administrative and management costs may be too high; at the government level, we may be struggling under an antiquated tax structure, and labor may be asking more than the traffic will bear."

Mr. Taylor urged that the heads of government, business and labor should get together to make sure that the common aims and needs of the country are not overlooked by one group or the other.

7 CPR Decision

Smacking Waitress Costs $50

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—A noisy smack given a waitress cost a longshoreman 50 smackers yesterday.

Arthur Frydman was fined $50 when he pleaded guilty to common assault before Magistrate George Cassidy.

Mrs. Mary Berkoff complained she was smacked Oct. 19 in the restaurant where she works. She said the smack "created quite a noise" and greatly embarrassed her.

Commented Magistrate Cassidy: "I'm not going to tolerate conduct like that."

Ferry Men Win Hike In Wages

VANCOUVER (CP)—Crews of Canadian Pacific Princess ferries have won an average nine per cent package increase spread over a 31-month contract.

B.C. Coast Service Ferries, the CPR's operating subsidiary, signed the new agreement and the Seafarer's International Union membership ratified it Monday.

Negotiations between the SIU and Canadian National Steamships have gone into conciliation. The union has also opened talks with Black Ball Ferries.

The CPR contract is the same as an agreement signed this summer with Northland Navigation Company, operators of 10 coastal vessels.

Police Car Hit Suspect Held

CASTLEGAR (CP)—RCMP took a resident of Pass Creek into custody yesterday in connection with the shooting at a police car Saturday night.

The man was not identified and police said he was held only for examination following a search of the area with a police tracking dog.

The shooting took place not far from the homes of the Hadikin brothers whose $200,000 sawmill was destroyed in a fire set by arsonists about a week earlier.

Nelson RCMP subdivision

spokesman said there is no doubt now that the shooting was carried out by somebody lying in ambush.

He dismissed suggestions that the shooting might have been the work of a Doukhobor guard. Some villages in the area now are guarded at night in the wake of recent cases of arson, which have been blamed on radical Sons of Freedom sect Doukhobors.

No one was injured in the shooting incident, but the police car in which two RCMP constables were travelling was damaged by bullets.

Let My Wife Go Says Jail Fugitive

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 27-year-old Montreal jail fugitive, appearing in police court handcuffed and guarded by police, made an impassioned plea to have his pretty young French-Canadian wife freed from custody.

Magistrate Oscar Orr, after hearing the story of Georges Starnino, entered a stay of proceedings against the 21-year-old wife, Pierrette, until the fugitive claims of her innocence could be verified.

Starnino, who escaped from Montreal's Bordeaux jail Sept.

16 while awaiting appeal of a 15-year prison term for burglary, is jointly charged with his wife on two counts of possessing unregistered firearms and one of possessing house-breaking tools. He pleaded guilty to the charges.

Substitute Firepower Keeps Habs on Target

There's no substitute for firepower, and Montreal Canadiens have substitute firepower.

Forced to start the season without Jean Beliveau (32-58) and Dickie Moore (35-34), all-star calibre forwards who accounted for 69 goals and 150 points last season, the National Hockey League champions seemed in for a bad start. They were also without ace-defenceman Doug Harvey and had not looked at all sharp in their training.

About the only thing going for them was that they had an easy schedule at the start—games well spaced and the first four against New York Rangers and Boston Bruins, the two trailing clubs last season.

GROUNDLESS

Coach Toe Blake's evident early fears have been, it has been shown, without foundation. All the injuries to Beliveau and Moore meant was more ice time for several forwards who have shown that that was all they needed.

Ralph Backstrom took Beliveau's place on the line with Marcel Bonin and Bernie Geoffrion and has scored seven goals and made five assists in eight games. Claude Provost took over Moore's left wing post on the line with Henri Richard and Don Marshall and has seven goals and seven assists.

And Billy Hicke is blossoming on a third line with Phil Goyette and Gilles Tremblay, doing his share with six goals in the eight games.

Hicke had two goals and an assist and Goyette three assists Sunday night as Canadiens remained unbeaten with a 6-3 win over Detroit Red Wings.

BALANCE IS KEY

Attacking balance has been the key to Montreal success, making up for a bit of a defensive letdown which has seen eight goals scored against Jacques Plante in the last two games.

The Backstrom-Bonin-Geoffrion line has 13 goals and 22 assists, the Richard-Provost-Marshall unit 17 goals and 17 assists and the Goyette-Tremblay-Hicke combination 10 goals and 15 assists.

It has moved Canadiens, with three games in hand, three points ahead of New York Rangers with Toronto Maple Leafs another three points out.

Rangers held on to second place Sunday night by outscoring the Leafs, 4-2, in New York.

In Sunday's third game, Chicago Black Hawks gained their fifth tie in nine starts—2-2 with the trailing Boston Bruins.

Vancouver Juniors Play Rods in Final

Sunday Game To Decide Championship

Victoria Vampires, boasting a 7-0 record for the season, meet Farmer Construction Sunday at Macdonald Park in a game that will decide first place in the Vancouver Island Juvenile Canadian Football League.

Vampires posted victory number seven Sunday in Nanaimo, winning, 30-13, on two touchdowns by Neil Worboys, one each by Fred Holmes and Dennis Todd. Todd also kicked a field goal and a convert, a single by Brian Rigby and a convert by Daryl Thomas.

Despite their perfect record, Vamps lead Farmers by only two points, thanks to a 24-13 victory earlier in the season. If Farmers win Sunday's final game, the clubs will be tied and first place will be decided on a total-point basis in the two meetings.

VANCOUVER — Vancouver Meralomas are where nobody but themselves expected them to be—in the western Canada junior Canadian football final.

The Lomas upset Edmonton Huskies, 17-14, here Sunday. Their opponents in the western Canada final Monday at Empire Stadium will be St. James Rods, another club that supposedly had no business getting that far.

Rods took on Saskatoon Hilltops, three-time Canadian junior champions, and beat them 29-7, Sunday in Winnipeg to take their two-game, total-point series, 51-27.

A fourth-quarter field goal by Wayne Jones gave the Lomas their victory after a defensive lapse by Edmonton gave them a chance to tie the score.

Playing before a crowd of 3,400, Meralomas tied the score in the quarter on a line plunge by halfback Norm Thomas that started at the Edmonton 26-yard line. Thomas went down, rolling to the 20-yard line, then got up and ran the rest of the way as Edmonton's defensive unit stood looking at him, thinking the play had been whistled dead.

Stoke Regains Stan After 30-Year Wait

LONDON (AP)—The magic name of Stanley Matthews is back where it belongs—in the soccer city of Stoke.

Stoke was where Matthews, star for England in dozens of internationals, started his career 30 years ago as a gangling, unknown 16-year-old.

The bewildering soft-shoe shuffle of the bow-legged Matthews quickly made its name.

Blackpool bought him from Stoke 14 years ago. The townspeople of Stoke rebelled at the transfer. But it went through.

Matthews spent 14 years bringing fame to Blackpool and England.

Then came an offer for the 46-year-old Matthews from his home town of Stoke. Blackpool accepted and transferred the wizard of dribble back to Stoke for only $3,000.

Matthews turned out for the first time for Stoke against Huddersfield Saturday. A crowd of 33,000—four times the usual—watched the match. "It's wonderful to be with Stoke," said Matthews after helping Stoke to a 3-0 win.

Said Stoke manager Tony Waddington: "Matthews played wonderfully well. He came up to everybody's hopes. He had a steady influence on the Stoke team."

One of the stiffest fines ever handed out in the Western Hockey League was announced Sunday night by league-president Al Leader.

Coley Hall, owner of the San Francisco Seals, was fined $500 for his actions in leaping on the ice at Vancouver last week to protest a decision made by referee Scotty Morrison during a game between Canucks and Seals.

Hall was incensed at a penalty called against defenceman Jim Hay, and after banging on the boards with a stick and failing to get Morrison's attention, took after the official.

Hall's Seals, a collection of veterans which has so far failed to produce, have won but one of 10 games.

Meanwhile, Hal Laycoe and his Portland Buckaroos are keeping on where they left off last season and threatening to make a runaway of the league's Southern Division.

Using the same blend of tenacious checking and opportunism which brought them the playoff title last spring, the Buckaroos have won six in a row after opening with a loss.

Their sixth win came Sunday night before 7,136 hometown fans, who watched as Los Angeles Blades went down, 4-1.

Bill Saunders and Tom McVie each had a goal and an assist for Bucks while Arnie Schmutz and Dale Rolfe got their other goals. Wally Hergeshimer prevented the very-good Bruce Gamble from getting a shutout with Blades' only goal, in the second period.

Sonny Has Grown Up

Philadelphia Eagles haven't fallen apart, as many predicted, without Norm Van Brocklin, who last year led them to the National Football League championship and then retired as a player to become coach of the Minnesota Vikings.

Sonny Jurgenson, who had to learn sitting on the bench while Van Brocklin was playing, has been proving that he was watching and absorbing.

IN HIS IMAGE
Jurgenson won the Eagles' sixth game in seven starts Sunday in a fashion which would have done Van Brocklin proud.

Eagles were trailing the rookie-studded and improving Washington Redskins, 20-24, when they got the ball on their own 20-yard line with just a minute left to play.

Jurgenson got them within 41 yards, then connected with his third touchdown pass of

Scots Boot Kickers Out of First Place

Pre-season "experts" were unanimous in the certainty that Hourigan's Kickers were going to finish far enough in front in the Victoria and District Football League to be almost out of sight.

But when Sunday's play was over it was Gorge Hotel at the top of the heap, the league's only unbeaten team after a 5-1 victory over Saanich

Drug Study Starts

HALIFAX (UPI) — A national study of the drug situation with particular reference to drugs being supplied as part of any medical scheme, was recommended to the royal commission on health services which opened hearings here yesterday.

Provincial Health Minister Donahoe presented a Nova Scotia brief.

"It would appear that we are becoming a nation which cannot get along without stimulation or sedation," the brief said.

Sacred Tale Nonsense — Teachers

VANCOUVER (CP) — A B.C. Teachers' Federation spokesman has branded as "nonsense" a suggestion that some teachers are politically indoctrinating pupils.

BCTF executive assistant J. A. Spragge spoke after B.C. Social Crediters urged action against teachers and others found indoctrinating pupils.

A Sacred spokesman said it was aimed at stopping the teaching of socialism.

"It's pure nonsense," Mr. Spragge replied.

Build your bank balance... Build your peace of mind

Unexpected expenses do happen. Things like dentist bills, doctor bills, car repairs and dozens of others. Often these expenses must be met immediately. Without an adequate bank balance... well, many a good man feels a small flush of panic. You can avoid this. Make sure you always have at least two months' salary in the bank. Deposit regularly. Watch the balance build. Enjoy that new feeling of security... the peace of mind that comes with money in the bank. Money in the bank has other advantages too. You pay bills easily, and on time. You capitalize on special discounts. You avoid charge account service fees. You take advantage of special sales. You establish credit for intelligent borrowing. But these are extra benefits. More than anything else, money in the bank protects you from the unexpected. Build your bank balance and build your peace of mind. Start building next payday.

Charming Princess Welcomed to City

Public May Attend City Hall Ceremony

The public will be allowed to fill seats in city hall council chamber this afternoon during the official visit by Princess Alexandra of Kent. Princess Alexandra will arrive at city hall at 12:00 p.m. and will be greeted on the entrance steps by Mayor and Mrs. Percy Scurrell.

The princess and her party will be escorted up the main staircase to the council chamber, where aldermen, their wives, City Manager C. C. Wyatt and City Clerk Frank Hunter and their wives will be waiting.

Mayor Scurrell's granddaughter, seven-year-old Barbara Joyce Jennings, will present a bouquet to Princess Alexandra.

The princess will meet official guests and spend a few minutes chatting to them before leaving city hall.

Citizens wishing to attend should enter city hall through Pandora Avenue entrance before noon and use the stairs to the left of the entrance to reach council chamber on the second floor.

BE SEATED

City officials warned yesterday that the public must be seated before Princess Alexandra arrives. Only a limited number of seats is available.

By PETER BRUTON

A tired Princess Alexandra of Kent finally reached Victoria yesterday aboard an ancient RCAF North Star—and promptly went to bed.

The attractive 24-year-old cousin of Queen Elizabeth stepped from the aircraft to be welcomed by a handful of dignitaries, by leaden, moisture-dripping skies, and by about 20 spectators at Patricia Bay Airport.

WEATHER TALKS

One of her first comments to Premier Bennett was about the weather.

"Was it better in Vancouver?" asked the premier.

"A little clearer, I think," replied Princess Alexandra who was dressed in a fur-trimmed olive green suit.

NET BENNETT

The princess remembered she had met Premier Bennett before.

"Yes, two years ago," said the premier, referring to the last time Princess Alexandra visited the city.

"It's lovely to be back here," she told him.

Also present at the airport were Mrs. Bennett, the premier's executive assistant, William Budd, deputy provincial secretary, Lawrie Wallace and Cmdr. Gar Dixon, aide to the lieutenant-governor.

FLEW OVER

Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes met the princess in Vancouver and flew over to Victoria with her.

Government House officials whisked the royal party to the official residence and later announced that Princess Alexandra had gone to bed.

She left London yesterday aboard a BOAC Britannia but had to transfer to an old RCAF North Star because the Patricia Bay Airport runways are not long enough to handle the big jet.

The welcoming party, which had been huddling in the waiting cars, stepped from the vehicles as soon as the roar of the plane's engines was heard.

SECOND APPROACH

The North Star came out of the low clouds above the airport and was forced to climb again and make another approach. This lasted about 15 minutes.

The plane made a perfect landing the second time.

The royal standard was fluttering from the plane as it taxied up to the waiting dignitaries.

First out of the plane was Princess Alexandra who smiled as she walked down the steps.

As soon as the handshakes were over she was whisked into the waiting car and driven into the city. Few people were aware who was passing.

NOT ADMITTED

Government House officials refused to admit photographers or reporters to the grounds for photographs of the princess being greeted by Mrs. Pearkes.

Today Princess Alexandra will visit the legislative buildings at 11:30 a.m. to sign the official visitors' book and will then travel to city hall to be greeted by Mayor Percy Scurrell.

An official state dinner will

In Junior High School

Segregate the Sexes?

Segregated classes for boys and girls in junior high school received backing last night from an assistant professor in the faculty of education at Victoria University.

Dr. Richard Monk said students at 15 and 16 are in "a rather silly stage" which made separate classes desirable.

"Another reason is that at this stage girls are two years more mature than boys. They make up two separate populations, so why not segregate them by sex just as we do by ability," he told more than 100 members of the university extension program.

PANEL CHAIRMAN

Dr. Monk acted as chairman of a panel discussing high school education today.

W. E. Graham, a former teacher and now an official of the department of education, said an experiment in divided classes conducted several years ago in a school of 1,400 indicated "no real difference" in scholastic achievement and discipline.

"But for two years I taught a class made up of boys only and I enjoyed myself tremendously," said Mr. Graham.

Geffery Archbold, instructor at Victoria University, said students now are being sent to Canadian private schools from the U.S. because they are seeking admission to highly competitive American colleges like Stanford, Princeton and Cornell.

ENRICHED PROGRAM

Victor Thomson, principal of Victoria High School, said public secondary schools today offer an enriched program for top students and also provide general and vocational programs to meet a wide variety of needs.

City Gets Petition

'Ban on Parking Stops Shoppers'

More than 100 persons have petitioned city council for the wholesale removal of rush-hour "no parking" signs from Victoria streets.

The petition, together with other letters on the subject, will be considered at a meeting of city public works committee at 9:15 a.m.

REPORT CALLED

Committee chairman, Ald. Geoffrey Edgell, favors removal of the signs and recently called for an engineering report on why the signs exist at all.

He contended that the ban on parking on certain city streets, particularly between 4 p.m. and 6 p.m., is taking customers away from city businesses.

UNREASONABLE

Submitted by former city alderman Elmer McEwen, the petition claims it is unreasonable for city council to put the restrictions on rush hour parking when there is no off-street parking provided.

Mr. McEwen, a downtown restaurateur, also suggests that instead, city hall should ban left-hand turns on the streets for the rush hour period.

The petition asks for removal of both the 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. parking ban and the removal of the 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. ban.

SHOPPERS HIT

In a letter to the committee, Victoria pharmacist R. H. Davidson claimed the signs turned city streets into free-ways to the detriment of merchants.

Mr. Davidson claimed that there are few shoppers among the rush hour drivers but that the parking ban stopped genuine shoppers finding businesses to park.

TAKES OFF

"Our business begins to taper off about 3:30 p.m. since people are not inclined to wander off to shop so close to the deadline," he said.

"The amount of revenue involved in order that a group of people who are basically non-shoppers can get home 10 minutes earlier seems rather high."

OTHER TURNS TOO?

Mr. Davidson also suggested that left hand turns should be banned on Douglas and Government Streets, between Belleville Street and the Fourth Circle.

Scott Drive Starts

A meeting which began on an Oak Bay bus and moved into a rented hall last night was addressed by philosopher-mayorality candidate William Scott as he opened his campaign with a barrage against "the hypocrisy which prohibits legalized gambling."

"On the way to the meeting, on the bus, I travelled with a lot of people going to play bingo at the Memorial Arena," Mr. Scott said.

"I asked them if they wanted legalized gambling and they answered with a resounding yes!"

He charged the B.C. government was hypocritical in that it gambled with the people's money but wouldn't allow the people to gamble themselves.

Premier Bennett, he claimed, "is the biggest gambler of them all."

"He gambled when he crossed the floor of the House, he gambled when he joined Social Credit, he gambled when he organized the B.C. ferry system."

"He gambled with the people's money and the gambles paid off."

"Why do they prevent us from doing the things they do?"

Mr. Scott challenged "certain members of the legal profession" to debate the question with him in public.

We Need $81,924

Donations to the current United Appeal swelled the total to $238,075 last night, leaving the fund only $81,924 short of its objective. United Appeal officials said there is still time to make a contribution. People missed by canvassers may send donations to one of the three banks at the corner of Douglas and Yates, to CJVT's radio booth, or to United Appeal headquarters at 1851 Cook Street.

After $150,000 Loss

Restaurant Owners Plan To Rebuild Right Away

The Monterey Restaurant at Hillside and Douglas, gutted by a $150,000 fire shortly before dawn yesterday, will be rebuilt from insurance money, its operators said last night.

Maurice and Trudy Wincure, who took over operation of the restaurant last March, said about 20 employees will be out of work because of the fire.

Cause of the 3:30 a.m. blaze was still not known at press time. Arthur Owen-Jones from the fire marshal's office in Vancouver, who is here in connection with another fire yesterday picked through the charred remains in search of a clue.

POLICE SPOTS FIRE
A police patrol car spotted the blaze and reported it to the fire department, said a fire department official.

Mr. Wincure said the Monterey will be rebuilt similar to the one destroyed by fire. Extent of insurance coverage won't be known until to day when a safe containing the insurance papers is lifted from the rubble, he said.

LAST PATRONS
Among the last persons to use the restaurant was a group of policemen holding a private get-together Sunday night to celebrate promotions among members of the force.

Mr. Wincure said he was there until 1:30 a.m. and everything seemed in order when he left.

As pre-dawn flames swept through the restaurant's wooden framework, parts of the main floor fell into the basement level where banquet and private party rooms were located.

MAIN FLOOR
On the main floor there had been a spacious kitchen, the mirrored Frontier Room, coffee shop and service facilities, business office, rotunda and cashier's office.

Heat and smoke were so intense firemen could not penetrate the building. Firemen poured water through windows and holes in the roof and walls.

TRAFFIC DIVERTED
Police diverted early morning traffic from the busy intersection. Incoming traffic on Hillside was turned south before it reached the roundabout and heavy trucks going south on Douglas were rerouted.

Firemen were still busy watering down burning debris in the basement late yesterday morning.

TAXPAYERS' CHOICE
City taxpayers have a choice between paying $980,000 for the B.C. Hydro building or paying up to $2,000,000 to build a new city hall, Mayor Percy Scurrah said last night.

He made the comment after a closed meeting of city council which plumped solidly in favor of buying the B.C. Hydro building.

A plebiscite will be put to ratify the decision during the Dec. 14 civic election, asking for approval of the scheme.

MONEY BYLAW
But if the scheme is rejected then plans and detailed cost estimates will be prepared for a new building and a money bylaw put to voters later.

"The council is ready to go ahead with this right now—we are convinced it's a good plan—but we feel it is such

Keep Pets Inside

The SPCA yesterday appealed to pet lovers to keep their dogs and cats inside during Halloween festivities. Branch manager Norman Stephens said pets should be kept away from children in a quiet place. "The noise and dressed-up children terrify them," he said.

K-Bomb 'Read' Here
Fallout Coming Soon

Victoria weather office recorded a sharp fluctuation in atmospheric pressure early Monday believed caused by the blast of the 50-megaton bomb in Russia.

Weatherman William Macle said he didn't know of any other disturbance that could have caused the jump of two millibars on the barograph at the Gonzales station.

SAME ELSEWHERE
Similar pressure increases were recorded at other weather stations across Canada about the same time 6:25 a.m.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the Pacific Naval Laboratory said radioactive fallout over Victoria is considered "quite low" in comparison to the average for the past month.

Monday's gigantic blast can be expected to show up in radiation counts here by next week end.

An earthquake centred somewhere in the North Pacific Sunday had touched off premature reports that Russia had exploded the giant K-bomb (for Khrushchev).

CHARLOTTE SOUND
R. H. White of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory said it was little more than a moderate shock followed during the day by two other tremors. All originated in the same area, pinpointed by Seattle seismologists as Queen Charlotte Sound.

The three shocks were not felt in the Queen Charlotte Islands, said Mr. White.

Deep Cove PTA To Hold Sale

Council Clears Bylaw

City council yesterday unanimously cleared the way to allow construction of a $1,000,000 high-rise apartment building on Douglas Street.

Construction of the 12-storey apartment building was halted abruptly last week when city council rejected an amendment to its high-rise zoning bylaw in face of strong opposition from James Bay residents.

UNANIMOUSLY
But at yesterday's meeting council voted unanimously to suspend its rules of procedure, voted unanimously to reconsider the bylaw and voted unanimously to adopt the bylaw.

The entire high-rise bylaw was referred to the city's advisory planning commission for reconsideration.

OPPOSERS
Opponents of the bylaw, led by two provincial government town planners, a provincial government engineer and a provincial government architect, gained two things—a review of the bylaw and the shifting of the building 3½ feet away from adjoining properties.

Mayor Scurrah, who cast the deciding vote which rejected the amendment last week, repeatedly and vainly sought some assurance from council that the means of regulating the number of high-rise buildings in any area would be altered.

30-DAY BAN
On the advice of city solicitor T. P. O'Grady, council also voted unanimously to put a 30-day ban on the issuing of high-rise building permits, to allow time for the whole bylaw to be reviewed and the advisory planning commission's recommendations to be considered by council.

E. E. Pearman, Victoria lawyer who represented the high-rise construction firm during council discussions, said last night it would be possible to move the building 3½ feet away from adjoining properties, whose owners had objected to being so close to the apartment building.

Public Beach Pollution Anticipated

A breakwater at Cadboro Bay could result in wholesale pollution of the public beach with untreated sewage.

The transportation and harbor group of Victoria Chamber of Commerce was told this yesterday by Ian Sherwin, 2810 Sea View Road, a spokesman for the Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association.

He said the association was opposed to construction of a breakwater at Cadboro Bay.

"The sewerage system from the Uplands goes into Cadboro Bay and in the summer the water can get pretty ripe," Mr. Sherwin said.

The meeting decided to invite municipal engineers of Saanich and Oak Bay to the next meeting to discuss matters.

'Hams' Deny Jamming

Reports that amateur radio operators were jamming "bad music" radio station KITN have been branded as pure nonsense by the Victoria Short Wave Club.

William Martin, club president, said last night no radio "ham" in the Victoria area has an axe to grind with KITN and none is permitted to broadcast on the regular broadcast band or on any frequencies near the broadcast band.

Mr. Martin said a club member and a radio station official investigating the complaint found the station was using a small transistor radio as a monitor. These have very poor selectivity on the upper end of the standard broadcast band.

MOVING OUT
"We are moving out," says Mr. Olson.

'Go Away, You Devil'
Answer to Arson Hint

A threat to burn another house on fire-menaced Cecelia Road came to light yesterday as one family, fearful for its safety, made plans to move out.

A woman injured in a fire on the street Sunday, which residents believe may have been set, was in good condition last night in hospital.

ON BACK PORCH

Latest blaze started early Sunday, apparently on the open back porch of the home of Max Miller, 489 Cecelia.

Firemen had to assist Mrs. Mildred Miller, 53, from the house and apply artificial respiration until she was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

NOTHING SERIOUS
Her son, Richard, 13, was helped out by firemen and neighbors. He suffered no serious effects.

Mr. Miller was attending a masquerade dance when the blaze broke out. There were some old newspapers and an old mattress on the porch.

KNOCK AT DOOR

The fire reminded neighbor Mrs. Steve Krancevick, 478 Cecelia, of a threat made to her last July, on the night of one of the earlier fires.

"It was about 2 in the morning," she told the Colonist, "and my husband had just gone back to bed after watching the fire when a man knocked at the door."

WANTED WINE
"He wanted me to get my husband up to give him some wine. At that time of night, I refused."

"First thing you know," he said, "we'll be burning up your house and your nice garden."

"You devil, you!" I said to him.

GO AWAY
"You haven't a cent in the house and you've never worked in the garden. Go away!"

"After that, I had to see a doctor, my heart was so upset."

Mr. Miller, Mrs. G. C. Neilson, 480 Cecelia, and Stanley Olson, 482 Cecelia, explained yesterday why they fear their homes may be burned.

OTHER INCIDENTS
They said seven other incidents since early summer include destruction of Mr. Miller's lumber pile, the Neilsons' garage and half a shed at Builders Sash and Door, a grass fire and several apparent arson attempts at Builders and a home.

In addition, damage was $3,000 when wind blew a Builders lumber shed across the Olsons' home and two cars.

MOVING OUT
"We are moving out," says Mr. Olson.

NOTEBOOK

EAGLE-EYED: Announcer on the Tommy Hunter radio show from Toronto went down into the audience the other day and suddenly chorled: "And here's someone who has fallen asleep!"

"I'm not asleep," replied the man in the audience.

"Well," laughed the announcer, still as cheerful as ever, "your eyes are closed."

"Yes," said the man, "I'm blind."

The CBC must still be shuddering over that one. But not the announcer.

"Well," he said on the air the next day, "I see nobody fell asleep today."

BAMBOLE MENU: Friend of ours went into one of the better known restaurants in

He asked for a ham and egg sandwich.

Our friend insisted and out she went, to ask the chef. But he refused as well. It just wasn't on the menu.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Will you rush some vitally needed information?

What states will allow a girl of 15 to get married? Can her parents annul the marriage if she lies about her age and says she is older? What states will allow a fellow of 18 to get married? Does he have to have a job? Can he be put in jail if he is of legal age but the girl is not? Is it true that the parents of the girl cannot cancel the marriage if the couple spends 24 hours together?

"The girl is not in any kind of trouble so don't quote laws about girls in jams. And please skip the advice. We know what we want to do. All we want from you is fast answers. Thanks.—YOUNG LOVERS"

Dear Young: Your letter is from southern Illinois. It gives me great pleasure to tell you that in this state neither you nor your girl is old enough to be married without parental consent.

As for the other questions, ask a lawyer. And if you don't know a lawyer I hope you will get acquainted with one because you'll probably be needing him later. If you think I'm trying to scare you, have a statistic: In 1960 approximately one marriage out of every three hit the rocks. And teen-age marriages are three times as risky as adult marriages. I hope I got this information to you fast enough, sir.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a great boy friend but he's soft in the head when it comes to playing the ponies. I told him I wasn't lending him any more money to throw away on bets. He promised he'd lay off.

A few days ago he phoned to say he had a sure thing from a guy on the inside. He wanted a century. I said no. An hour later he dropped by my little place of business and said he had to go to Peoria to see his sick mother and the garage wouldn't let him have the car unless he paid the

Now I'm mad at myself. I think he made up the story about his sick mother.

What does this sound like to you?—PIDGE

Dear Pidge: It sounds like the horse was sick. If you have any idea of marrying this fast-talker, be prepared for more of the same. Horse bettors have vivid imaginations. They should write fiction.

Dear Ann Landers: I work in a store with a rather elderly man who must be very lonely. He doesn't seem to have any family or friends.

For my birthday last year he gave me a silver dollar for every year. This amounted to $33. The money came in handy but I felt uneasy about accepting it. At Christmas time he gave me a gift certificate for $25. This embarrassed me because I gave him a handkerchief.

Yesterday when my wrist watch broke, he said he knew what to get for my birthday next month. I can use a new watch, Ann, but should I accept it? I'm a nice girl and I want to stay that way.—A. M.

Dear A. M.: People who accept gifts which are out of proportion obligate themselves. Your last line suggests exactly what I'm driving at. Tell him you appreciate his generosity but you simply cannot accept a gift which costs more than $2. If he buys something expensive, give it back.

Guiders everywhere have been saddened to hear of the illness of world chief guide, Lady Baden-Powell which necessitated cancellation of her cross-Canada tour. However, it is announced that Greater Victoria Area Guide and Brownie rallies which were to take place during her visit, will still be held as planned, in early December, with Mrs. C. R. Pearkes as special guest. Mrs. Roy Holmes, provincial commissioner, will also attend the events.

COURT CIRCULAR

Buckingham Palace, Oct. 27.

His Excellency Senhor Jose Cochrane de Azevedo was received in audience by The Queen this morning and presented the Letters of Recall of his predecessor and his own Letters of Credence as Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary from the Republic of the United States of Brazil to the Court of St. James's.

Regum Ikramullah also had the honor of being received by The Queen.

The Queen received Major-General W. A. Dimoline (Colonel Commandant, The King's African Rifles) and representatives of The King's African Rifles and accepted the gift of a Regimental brooch.

St. James's Palace, Oct. 27.

The Duke of Gloucester visited Birmingham this afternoon when he was received by The Lord Mayor (Alderman E. Mole). His Royal Highness, as president of the National Association, visited a number of Boys' Clubs in the City during the evening.

Major Blair Stewart-Wilson was in attendance.

Princess Alexandra arrived in Victoria Monday morning after a flight from Vancouver, accompanied by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia George R. Pearkes who greeted her officially in the mainland city.

In the royal entourage are Lady Moyra Hamilton, lady-in-waiting; Sir Phillip Hay, private secretary, and Miss Patricia Heaton, secretary.

Always dressed in superb taste, the Princess was stunning as she arrived in a walking suit of woody green and beautifully fashioned with a wide band of soft fur at the hem of the A-line, stroller-length coat which topped a slim, short, knee-length skirt.

Her hat was a draped cloche in matching fur, which sat prettily back on her head enabling the public to see her face and her smile which was evident to those who caught brief glimpses of her during the drive to Government House. She wore brown accessories and smart shoes with the new chisel toe.

It was a very quiet drive through city streets to Government House, where she was greeted by Mrs. Pearkes.

Once the black timousne bearing its royal charge had slipped through the massive gates at Government House, they were silently shut.

A Royal Canadian Mounted Police officer in scarlet tunic stood sentry. All was quiet at Government House Monday, for Her Royal Highness, having flown all night by jet from London to Vancouver, retired to her suite to rest for the afternoon.

Today her schedule includes a visit to the Legislative Buildings and to the city hall, and this evening the official dinner.

What every parent should know

Young people are fortunate if, early in life, they are taught the values and uses of life insurance—and how to build a step-by-step security programme.

They are doubly fortunate if their parents have started them on such a plan while young—by paying the premiums until they are earning incomes of their own.

If you are the father or mother of a young son (or daughter), the insurance you buy for them now assures them lower premiums. It encourages thrift, starts them building an estate, and you can include provision for future policies even though their health may be later impaired through illness or accident.

As a parent—you can teach your children the importance of buying permanent personal policies of life insurance while young—other forms of savings and investment can wait until later when age or health isn't a controlling factor.

To guide you, we suggest you talk to The Excelsior Life man in your neighbourhood—he has been selected and trained to help you and your children develop your own "Blueprints for Security".

Boy of Nine Accused Of Murder

Names in the News

MISHAWAKA, Ind.—Nine-year-old Ronnie Vert Wing pleaded innocent in an adult court here to a premeditated murder charge in the shotgun slaying of his playmate, Albert Doyle, said he never heard of a child so young being charged with a crime punishable by death.

The case boiled down to a controversy over whether the fatal wounding of 13-year-old Linda Rice was accidental or deliberate.

Prosecutor Patrick Brennan said, "at first blush it looked to be accidental. But later it developed it was exactly the opposite. The boy was chastised a bit by the girl. The gun was not loaded when the boy went into the next room to get it. He loaded it."

ROME—Senator Luigi Einaudi, 87, former president of Italy, died in a clinic here. He was the first president when Italy became a republic in 1946 and held the post until 1955.

ACCRA—President Kwame Nkrumah tightened his grip on Ghana with the passage in parliament of a bill setting up special courts that can mete out the death penalty for political offences.

QUEBEC—A travel plan for Canadian high school students might allow one per cent of that group to see more of the country. Citizenship Minister Elton Fairbairn said here.

The proposal is a suggestion for celebrating Canada's 100th birthday in 1967.

LOS ANGELES—Dr. Detlev Bronk, president of the National Academy of Sciences, said he believes the U.S. is ahead of Russia in "general quality" of scientific research even though Russia may lead in isolated areas.

WASHINGTON—Veteran Washington news analyst Howard Smith is leaving the Columbia Broadcasting System because of "a difference in interpretation of CBS news policy," the network announced.

MONTREAL—Léon Gérin, 71, well-known writer whose novel "Jancin" won a Quebec government award in 1960, died in hospital here.

Should Have Crashed Wall

West Missed Chance

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said yesterday the West should have considered knocking down the Communist-built wall dividing Berlin the day it was erected.

The Montana senator said the wall put the United States "more than ever" on the defensive.

"Consideration should have been given to knocking down the barbed wire on the first day (Aug. 13)," he said. Now there is not much we can do about the wall, he added.

One way to regain the dip-

Cambodia Can Use Arms

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Cambodia is free to use U.S. arms aid in defense against any aggressor, Communist or anti-Communist, U.S. officials said yesterday in answer to Prince Norodom Sihanouk, who had complained that U.S. military aid "does not permit us to defend our liberty and independence" against attacks "threatened" by Thailand.

Overtime Demand Sours Milk Strike

NEW YORK (AP)—A deadlock on overtime pay Monday complicated possible settlement of a six-day milk strike that has drained New York and Long Island of supplies for 10,000,000 consumers.

Samuel Cohen, lawyer for 10,000 striking Teamsters Union truck drivers and milk plant handlers, reported no program in continuing peace talks.

The union claimed Monday that its milk truck drivers have been unable to collect overtime from the dealers. It sought the installation of time clocks in milk trucks to log overtime.

Milk dealers, however, contended time clocks would encourage featherbedding.

Garden Notes

Tulips Aren't Fussy

By M. V. CHESNEY, PHR

In planning spring color for the garden, the ideal follow-on for the crocuses—which start the ball rolling—are the tulips. Both have the same glowing sheen to the petals and the same expensiveness toward sunshine and warmth. The tulips, though, make up for their later appearance by an added brilliance—you could almost call it flamboyance—that carries spring to its climax.

There is never any particular difficulty in finding room for tulips in the garden. You can plant them in beds to themselves, in little groups and clumps among other plants in the perennial border or here and there among the shrubs. In prominent beds of their own, they don't mind too much if you dig them up while still in full leaf and transfer them to a row in the vegetable garden to make room for bedding-out annuals.

The only real problem with tulips is to decide what kinds to grow, for the choice is so wide as to be baffling. One of my favorite bulb catalogues, for instance, lists 20 different classifications or "families" of tulips, and this before they ever get down to describing individual varieties, which must run away up in the thousands. The most popular and most widely planted are the Darwins, with their typical goblet-shaped flowers and long, straight stems. And to the ordinary backyard gardener, you could group the Cottage and Breeder tulips in with the Darwins, for the differences are not easy to spot. These are the guardmen among tulips—the most formal types, always on parade, stiff and straight and never relaxing even when the blooms are fully open.

A most charming development from the Cottage tulip is the lily-flowered type; my wife and I have both fallen hard for these lovely blooms. With extra-long flowers and pointed, elegantly tapering petals, these are the most graceful of the whole tulip tribe. Our favorites are Marquette, pink, White Triumphator and Yellow Marvel.

At the other end of the scale are the Parrot tulips, a strange and fascinating group as informal as the Darwins are stiff. The blooms open out wide, more like an oriental poppy than a tulip, but with the petals fringed and feathery and the stems are more flexible, much more accommodating to the flower arranger than the rigid stalks of the Darwins.

Just about every color and color combination can be found in the Parrot tulips, for these are all natural sports from other types. For instance, the pink-and-green Fantasy is a sport from the Darwin tulip Clara Butt and Fantasy itself has sported to give us the scarlet Firebird. The huge-flowered Texas Gold is a sport from the beloved Cottage tulip Inglescombe Yellow.

Folks either love or detest the double tulips—there doesn't seem to be any middle ground—and I can't say I care much for them myself, as I would sooner grow peonies, which they resemble. I'll say this for them, though—their fragrance is much sweeter than the more conventional kinds.

The water-lily tulip is well named and worthy of a place in any garden, especially for spots like the rock garden where they may be allowed to remain undisturbed. These are in bloom much earlier than other kinds, making a dwarf plant with flower stems only six to nine inches tall and with wide open pointed-petal blooms. The bulbs are more expensive than Darwins, with some of the newer hybrids like Josef Kalka running as high as $1.75 each.

For size of bloom and brilliance of coloring, the Fosteriana tulips beat all the others. Red Emperor, for instance, would shame a newly-painted fire engine into drab insignificance.

John Crosby

Critic at Large

Red-Haters Outdo Nikita

It's vastly reassuring to find the Communists quarrelling openly in Moscow, if only to reduce some of the paranoia in the Western world. There are visible cracks in what appears to be a monolithic society—so much so that Reuters reports from Peking that Communist China is on the verge of acknowledging an open rift in the world Communist movement.

You may set it down as one of Crosby's Laws that there is no such thing as a monolithic society, at least not one composed of humans. Still, we never learn. Hitler's was considered a monolithic society, too, in spite of the absurdity of the idea that all 78,000,000 of Hitler's Germans were as looney as he was. There were cracks under the surface then, too, but we didn't see them and this led us into vast miscalculations.

Sen. Fulbright has most wisely observed that Americans consistently overrate their enemies and underrate themselves. They overrate their strength, their determination, their unanimity, their singleness of purpose, their clearheadedness, their methods, their objectives, and even their bank account. At the same time, they consistently underrate their sterling qualities in themselves which are very impressive.

The U.S. is the strongest and richest nation in the world but it hardly ever gives itself credit for Moscow, if only to reduce some of the paranoia in the Western world. There are visible cracks in what appears to be a monolithic society—so much so that Reuters reports from Peking that Communist China is on the verge of acknowledging an open rift in the world Communist movement.

Where are the Russian victories? Well, China, and there only because the U.S. persistently and stubbornly (and still) supports the bankrupt, corrupt, decadent, fatulent regime of Chiang Kai-shek, Diembienuh, which was a border skirmish. Otherwise...

My great objection to communism is, as Bertrand Russell has so acutely pointed out, that it is based on hatred not on love. Today the Communists are meeting in Moscow to find out what they're for. We know what they're against. They're against us. But in the millions of words Marx wrote about how to pull down the capitalist system, there was almost nothing about what he planned to put up in its stead.

The great tragedy is that the Soviets are pushing us into their image-hatred and monolithism. We are becoming a hating society, not a loving one. The lunatics, Americans thought they had successfully buried with Sen. McCarthy, are with them again in the ratings of the Birch Society, again turning friend against neighbor, looking under the bed for evidence of subversion (they'd find it more quickly in the mirror). Again we find the haters in California—which seems to produce more pure hatred than all the rest of the U.S. put together—staging a monster three-hour concentration of pure venom on television in which it was again and again suggested that the United States was largely people by traitors.

When Khrushchev boasts that he is going to make us over into his own image, he must be thinking of the sort of people who attend those monster hatred rallies. As a matter of fact, those super-patriots in California sound almost exactly like Khrushchev himself denouncing Albania. It has been the experience in Germany that this kind of vigilance makes the best Communists. A good many of the most virulent anti-Communists in Germany are now happily in the People's Police hunting down subversives as usual. No matter what the social system is, you'll find those people turning in their neighbors.

Rex Broods Over Role

ROME (NANA)—Rex Harrison's battles with fiancée Rachel Roberts can be heard all over their hotel here. And such language!... Quite by chance I was seated next to their table for dinner at a restaurant here, and got what you might call an "earful." Rex is worried about his role of Caesar in "Cleopatra" and was blaming Rachel for advising him to accept the part. "But how could I know," said Rachel to Rex, "that you'd play Caesar like Professor Higgins?" The answer of the 60ish-year-old star was lost in a splutter.

The scar on Elizabeth Taylor's neck has been acting up in the damp weather of Rome. It gets red and itchy, and Liz will undergo more plastic surgery as soon as work permits.

R. J. Wagner has hired a detective to find the photographer who took that picture of him kissing Maria Dore in the entrance to the ladies' room in the Grand Hotel. He wants to bop the lensman on the beeper.

Richard Fleischer, my host at the Cabala, told me he directed the crucifixion of Christ in "Barabba" on the day of the eclipse last February. "It's the only time a movie has stopped the sun," his very attractive wife added.

Dorothy Malone told me why she is leaving handsome husband Jacques Bergeron to fly back to Hollywood, instead of staying here with him in their new apartment, and having the baby in Rome. "How can he be president of the United States, if he isn't an American citizen?" The baby is due in January.

Dinah Shore flew in and out of Rome with her good travelling friend, Mrs. Stanley Kowalski of Chicago. "Kirk and Ann Douglas called me in Paris and said Rome is only an hour and a half away," so I called George (Montgomery) and he said "Okay, go ahead. I'll look after the children," Dinah reported.

Mexico-Bound

Canoeists Paddle 2,040 Miles

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UPI)—Two Canadian canoeists who left Ottawa July 13 on a 3,000-mile canoe trip to Veracruz, Mexico, rested up here yesterday.

Marcel Rocheleau, 22, and Gerald Hould, 23, Quebec, recent graduates of the University of Ottawa, made camp on the banks of the Ohio River and expected to remain a few days.

The men paddled 2,040 miles in their 16-foot canoe since leaving Quebec. They started on the St. Lawrence River and continued along lakes Ontario and Erie. They were forced to transport their canoe overland 50 miles from Buffalo to the Allegheny River which flows into the Ohio.

The men said they were carrying a message asking all French-speaking people in the United States to support the independence of the province of Quebec. They also intend to write a book about their experiences. They plan a return trip from Veracruz by way of the Gulf Coast, around the tip of Florida and up the Atlantic coast about two years.

Their trip is estimated at 15,000 by Christmas.

Sunday, it raised its penalty for lateness to a maximum of $5 from $1, and that's not all. If a delinquent borrower fails by the third week, a note will be sent to the Credit Bureau of Greater Toronto.

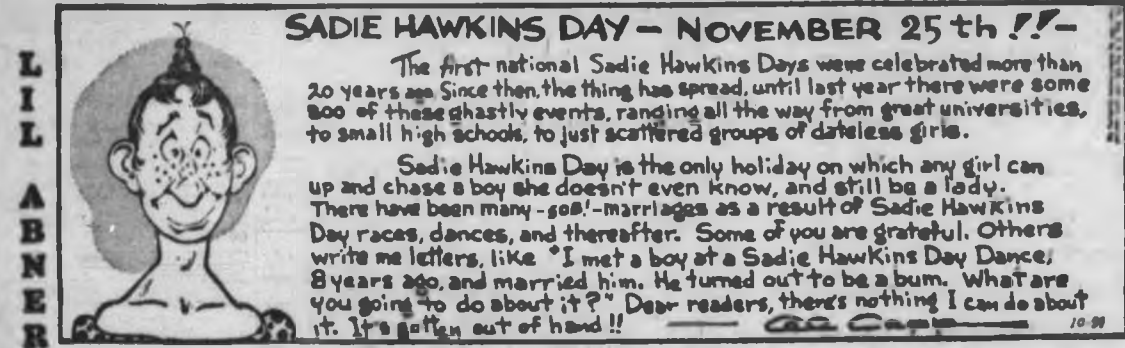

The borrower will hear about it, too. A library staffer may come knocking at the door for books and fines.

Art 'Vital' In Life Of Indians

The importance of traditional art in the life of B.C. coast Indians was stressed last night at a meeting of the Victoria branch of the B.C. Historical Association by George Cluden—an Indian himself.

He urged perpetuation of Indian art because it is tied so closely to the day-to-day lives of the people themselves.

Jail, Ticket Rules Tightened

Two changes in policy in the issuing of traffic tickets are planned by Victoria police commission.

A third policy change will affect visits to prisoners in the city jail.

Commissioners William Hamilton and Gordon Carter accompanied Chief Constable Blackstock on a recent tour of police departments in Calgary and Edmonton. The changes are part of the results.

A system of warnings for drivers is one proposal. Drivers stopped for minor traffic violations would be given red "warning" tickets, with an admonition that if there is no previous record there may be no summons.

If the driver has a prior warning, he will be summonsed. If a single warning goes without a repeat for 13 months, the original will be torn up and the driver given a "fresh start."

"It is hoped," said Mr. Carter, "to encourage more, sane and careful driving without giving rise to accusations that too many tickets are being handed out."

At present, commissioners will be restricted in lawyers and members of the immediate family, "except in unusual circumstances," the commission has every offence treated as decided.

Facilities in Victoria—jail

Visits to jail prisoners will do not lend themselves to a number of visitors, yet the policy has been the "old-fashioned" one of letting friends as well as relatives visit.

Why the Rambler name on this 1962 American makes it your best compact value at the lowest compact price

Twelve years ago we built the first compact car. Today, known as the Rambler Classic, this car has enabled us to develop a smaller, newer kind of compact car — the Rambler American, priced below any other North American compact car — bar none! Here is an eager car, youthful in spirit and dashing in its good looks. Its all welded body and frame will never annoy you with squeaks and rattles. A revolutionary ceramic muffler and tail-pipe is so corrosion resistant we guarantee it for as long as you own the car. Then there's a thing we call deep-dip rustproofing... a process developed by us to resist Canadian weather conditions. That's why Ramblers always seem to look new even after two or three years on the road. In the economy department, the American speaks for itself — it has won hands down every economy run it has ever entered. Available for '62 is the new E-Stick with no clutch pedal. One thing more, look inside the 1962 American. You'll be surprised what a difference clever designing makes in space and comfort. Yes, for price, solid value, economy and comfort the Rambler American for 1962 is the standard of the industry. Before you buy any other car, see the American at your local Rambler dealer's today!

Lawyer's Widow May Appeal Verdict

Her coat raised high about her head, Mrs. Dawn Rogers sentenced yesterday for keeping a common bawdy house and for skipping bail—ran a gauntlet of curious eyes as she left city jail in the afternoon.

Meanwhile, defence counsel J. E. Gatehouse said an appeal may be launched against conviction of the former Victoria woman on charges of keeping a bawdy house.

WHISKED AWAY

While a number of police officers stood by, Mrs. Rogers left the police charge office and entered a car drawn up in the alley immediately outside.

Avoiding the gaze of the curious onlookers, she was whisked away to make arrangements for the burial of her husband—the lawyer who defended her last Wednesday and Thursday on the first charge, then took an overdose of barbiturates some time Thursday night or early Friday.

FOUR MONTHS

She will take the body of Edward C. Rogers, whom she married four months ago, to Vancouver today.

As Dawn Adams, she had been charged with the bawdy house offence two years ago. At that time she posted $500 bail, then did not appear for her trial. The bail was forfeited.

Early this month she was arrested in Vancouver, returned to Victoria to face trial on the original charge and the bail-skipping charge added.

GUILTY ON BOTH

She was found guilty after trial on the first; pleaded guilty to the second.

Remanded originally to this Thursday for sentence, the woman was brought up in city court again Saturday before Acting Magistrate J. A. Byers when on her behalf lawyer J. E. Gatehouse asked for immediate disposition of her case on compassionate grounds.

GOOD BEHAVIOR

Magistrate Byers gave her a suspended sentence on the two-year-old charge, under bond of $500 to be of good behavior for a year, and fined her $100 on the second charge.

He refused to allow time to pay the fine and Mrs. Rogers, weeping, was returned to the jail until the money was raised and she was released in the afternoon.

Hatless, clad in a black suit and wearing black gloves, she appeared shaken when she entered the prisoner's box in the morning court session.

FAR GREATER

It was a reminder of last week's tragedy that shook her composure.

Her husband's death, said Magistrate Byers, constituted "a form of punishment far greater than any term can."

Deadline Near For Chrysler

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers and Chrysler, with only a day to go before a union deadline, tried last night to resolve a handful of thorny issues holding up full agreement on a new contract for 80,000 workers.

UAW president Walter Reuther said "it may be a long session—but what we have to say to the company may stimulate them into a quick recess."

wanted 200 new dentists NOW

British Columbia needs 200 new dentists — and needs them now. So acute is the shortage of qualified men that many areas of B.C. have no readily available dental service at all. And the trouble is — dentists are not trained overnight. It takes at least six years of intensive University study to become a dentist. Although the University of British Columbia does not as yet have a Dental Faculty, there are several excellent schools in Canada to provide such training. B.C. dentists have a big job on their hands. Are you willing to help? If so, write for our pamphlet, Dentistry As a Career. No other profession will offer you greater opportunities to help your fellow men. And none is quite so vital to your community now.

More Buses Planned

B.C. Electric will step up its bus service on the University-Victoria West routes 14 and 15, Esquimalt Council was notified last night.

The increase from 15-minute to 10-minute service between noon and 6 p.m. on those routes will take place Nov. 26, a letter from BCE stated.

Lloyd McKenzie, president of the Victoria Bar Association, said a lawyer who undertakes the defence of his wife on any charge jeopardizes his chances of success.

"He can't remain objective when the case involves one so close," he said.

Too old to buy insurance?

Being over 65 is no barrier to the purchase of new life insurance. And for many people in their sixties or seventies it can be a very wise "buy."

Here's an example. A man age 75 has a substantial number of investments. At death, estate taxes will have to be paid. To raise the cash, income-producing assets have to be sold, often with severe losses to the beneficiaries. Life insurance can prevent this loss by providing the necessary cash.

Manufacturers Life has a sound reputation for its liberal approach to insuring older people for the purpose of estate conservation or for guaranteeing the continuity of a business. Our representatives are qualified to provide competent counsel to help our senior citizens meet these special needs.

TORONTO (CP) — Three men were shot, one fatally, Monday by a gunman who sprayed slugs from a sawed-off .303-calibre army rifle through a crowd of customers in a downtown bank.

The dead customer was John Muttart. A 23-year-old Montreal man was arrested.

The wounded customers were John McNeil, shot in the hip, and Frank Zdancewicz, hit in the arm. Injured was taxi driver Harry Richmond, 39, hurt when his cab was rammed by the getaway truck.

All three were in satisfactory condition in hospital.

ONCE REVIVED

Doctors lost a desperate fight for Muttart's life, once reviving him with heart massage after he was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

Teller Alfred Henry, 19, said he was talking to Mr. Muttart, cashing a cheque for him when the man behind him in line tapped the customer on the shoulder.

"He edged in front of him, then wheeled and shot without saying a word," the teller said. "As soon as I heard the shot I yelled and dropped to the floor."

The gunman fired three shots, and three persons fell. Then he ran out.

Education Program Outlined

OTTAWA (CP) — A blueprint for adult education, designed to enable Canadians to cope with the complex problems of modern living, was outlined yesterday at the national conference on adult education.

The 275 delegates divided into five major workshops dealing with the relation of adult education with work, leisure, society, science and politics. Each workshop then broke down into a number of small discussion groups.

R. E. G. Davis, executive director of the Canadian Welfare Council, said: "If every Canadian could master counting and reading, he would be able to control his destiny to a relatively greater extent."

Williston Stand 'Unfair'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The NDP-CCF member of the legislature for Revelstoke says Lands and Forests Minister Williston was unfair in comments on Columbia River water licence hearings.

George Hobbs said statements made by Mr. Williston Oct. 11 could prejudice the outcome of hearings of the B.C. Power Commission's proposals.

Mr. Williston said the hearings are complete and licence could be granted.

Mr. Hobbs said the hearings are not completed and Mr. Williston's "seemingly prejudicial utterance" placed Water Comptroller A. F. Paget in an impossible position.

Canadians Told:

Obeey Law —Turn In 'Tropics'

OTTAWA (CP) — Law-abiding citizens are expected to turn over to customs officers any copies of the banned novel "Tropic of Cancer" they have in their possession, a senior revenue department official said Monday.

If they wish to dispute the ban against the book, he said, they have the right to appeal to the local county or district courts.

MP INVOLVED

Copies of the book by Henry Miller have been on the shelves of the Vancouver, Toronto and Ottawa public libraries. Frank Howard, CCF MP for Skeena, also was said to have received a copy of the book through the mail from the U.S.

The Toronto Public Library has refused to surrender its four copies.

New Stand Taken By Reds

BERLIN (UPI) — The U.S. army yesterday ordered a fresh company of troops into West Berlin in the wake of new Communist claims that Allied access rights to the isolated city no longer exist.

The army said Company "A" of the 20th Engineer Battalion — recently ordered to Europe from the United States — will move to Berlin on the autobahn lifeline across East Germany to replace Company "D" at the 12th Engineer Battalion there.

TROOPS LEAVE

The announcement said five truck loads of troops from Company "D" rode to the West Sunday on the Berlin-Helmstedt highway and others will follow daily.

'BY INCREMENTS'

The troop exchange will take place "by increments," the army said. Informal sources said these movements of troop units both east and west on the highway from Berlin to the west indicated U.S. determination to continue demonstrating Allied ground access rights with combat vehicles.

'ONLY TEMPORARY'

The East German foreign affairs bulletin, distributed in East Berlin yesterday, said Allied Berlin access rights were of a "temporary and limited nature" and were valid no longer. It referred specifically to routes by land and air.

The army announcement of the ordered troop movement came as U.S. officials disclosed fresh Soviet harassment along West Berlin's autobahn lifeline with West Germany.

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union yesterday proposed to Finland talks on protecting their borders against what it termed "a possible attack by West Germany and her allies."

Girl, 5, Shot By Boy, 5

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Lynn Atkinson, 5, of Sardinia, was in good condition in hospital Monday with a head wound, suffered when creased by a slug from a 12-gauge shotgun fired by a five-year-old neighbor boy.

RCMP said the solid slug travelled about 500 feet across the road from the neighbor's yard, smashed through a wall into Lynn's bedroom, where she sat on her bed.

Queen May Call For More Troops

LONDON (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth will call on Parliament today to speed up the flow of British troops overseas and to stem the flood of migrants from Commonwealth nations, political sources said yesterday.

The sources said the requests will be contained in the traditional speech — written by the party in power — which is read by the British monarch to the opening session of Parliament.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is concerned over the government's limited power to call up army reserves in emergencies, the sources said. Especially vital now is the need to bolster the under-manned British Army of the Rhine (BAOR) in West Germany.

PLAN FROM U.S. — British newspapers said the stepped-up drive to bring the 35,000-man BAOR up to full strength in view of the Berlin crisis is being made in response to a plea from U.S. deputy defence secretary Roswell Gilpatrick.

CURE OPPOSED — Galpatric returned to Washington last night after conferring with British Defence Minister Harold Watkinson.

The Opposition Labor party is expected to support Macmillan on the troop issue. But the socialists will oppose any attempt by the Conservative government to curb the flow of migrants from the Commonwealth nations.

Katanga Faces Invasion

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Fighting has broken out between central government and Katanga troops and Premier Cyrille Adoula announced Monday a virtual declaration of war against the secessionist province.

The moderate premier of the Leopoldville government said a police action had been launched to liquidate Katanga's secession.

REPORTS IN ACTION — Reports from Elisabethville, capital of Katanga, said Katangan planes had gone into action to help a company of troops fighting about 500 central government invaders at Kizamba, a border town in the northern part of the province.

United Nations officers in a report to Leopoldville said two Kasai province villages in central government territory were set afire by two Katanga bombers north of the fighting zone Sunday.

Firemen On Spot

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Firemen on duty at Kamloops fire hall didn't have far to go to control a fire Sunday.

Duty men sleeping in the hall were awakened by a crashing sound. They found chesters, fields, curtains and window frames in the recreation hall ablaze.

GIANT RED BLAST CALLED MADNESS

Terror Tactic —Kennedy

(By AP and CP)

An angry free world deplored the Soviet super-bomb Monday as "a great leap backward toward anarchy and disaster."

Reacting with unusual swiftness, spokesmen for governments around the globe expressed shock and indignation at the Soviet 50-plus megaton explosion, carried out in defiance of an appeal from the United Nations General Assembly.

President Kennedy called the blast "a political rather than a military act."

He described the Russian test as "primarily an incitement to fright and panic in the cold war" and said it does not affect the basic balance of nuclear power.

'LEAP BACKWARD'

At the United Nations, U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson said the U.S. delegation "deeply deplores this contempt for world opinion... The world has taken a great leap backward toward anarchy and disaster."

'WANTON DISREGARD'

In London, the foreign office said Britain "deplored" the explosion and shared "the indignation which will be universally felt at this wanton disregard for the welfare and safety of the human race."

'INSANE DECISION'

In Bonn, West German Foreign Minister Heinrich Von Brentano charged the Russians with trying to create fear and terror.

"An insane decision," the Vatican radio said, "morally, politically, socially, economically and humanely depreciable."

'REDS RESPONSIBLE'

The Dutch government said it "holds the Soviet Union responsible for the poisoning of the atmosphere."

The Scandinavian countries were unanimous in criticism, and even in Finland, Russia's tiny neighbor, there were protests.

'DEEPLY WORRIED'

Swedish Prime Minister Tage Erlander said that the explosion was the only answer he had received to his appeal to Khrushchev to call off the test.

Denish Prime Minister Viggo Kampmann said he had hoped the Soviet Union would refrain from exploding its huge weapon. Now, he said, "I can only say I am deeply worried."

First reaction among African nations came from President Hubert Maga of Dahomey. He said: "The arms race is a race to disaster."

West's Policy May Change Says Green

OTTAWA (CP) — The Western world may have to take a new look at its policies in dealing with Russia as a result of Moscow's "utter irresponsibility" in proceeding with nuclear tests, acting prime minister Howard Green said Monday.

In Tokyo, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he was shocked by Russia's monstrous disregard for the thinking of humanity in exploding the super-bomb.

He said that if Soviet nuclear explosions are intended to cause division among NATO nations, they have not succeeded.

'PROTEST USELESS'

Mr. Green did not elaborate on the suggestion that Western policy may need changes, and said there was no decision yet on Canada's next step.

Sending a protest note to Russia probably would be useless.

'WILL DO BEST'

"As for the next steps, I'm not in a position to say at the moment what can be done, but Canada will do her best to bring some sanity back into this old world of ours," he said.

'BACKWARD STEP'

Mr. Green, who presided at a cabinet meeting, told reporters that the explosion in the Russian Arctic Monday was a backward step demonstrating Russia's total disregard for world opinion.

'ACTION URGED'

Liberal leader Lester Pearson said in Toronto that Russia should be formally condemned by the United Nations.

He called on Canada to take the lead in organizing such an action, which would label the test a new form of aggression.

He termed the Soviet action "a crime against humanity."

Russia Broke Pact To Perfect Bomb

WACO, Tex. (UPI) — Dr. Edward Teller, "father of the H-bomb," charged yesterday that the Russians made many underground nuclear tests in violation of the three-year agreement on atomic experiments.

He said the proof is the 50-megaton device they exploded yesterday. He said they could not have exploded it without undetected tests.

"It would have required months and even as long as a year to get ready for this test," Teller said at a news conference.

'TIE OF PROGRESS'

Teller said the detonation of "such a big bomb certainly is a piece of progress, but very likely this is by no means the most important part."

"It is possible that they have tried out new principles developed in previous undetected experiments," Teller said.

'EXPONES US'

He said these new principles made it "highly likely" the Soviets have developed an anti-missile missile.

"Such a development is particularly dangerous for us because it deprives us of the power to retaliate and exposes us to blackmail," Teller said.

Big Blast The Last?

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Soviet ambassador to Denmark Kliment Voroshilov said Monday the explosion of a nuclear bomb by the Soviet Union Monday marked the end of a series of Soviet nuclear tests.

U.S. High-Level A-Tests Now 'Must' Says Senator

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Henry Jackson, chairman of the joint committee on atomic weapons, said yesterday the United States will have to resume nuclear tests in the atmosphere for the sake of security.

"We'll have to," he said. "There can be no question that the Soviets are improving the sophistication of their warheads to the point that the long lead we have may be in jeopardy."

The Washington Democrat said that the United States would not need a lot of tests, "and they would be of low yield."

Sen. Jackson called the Pentagon decision to halt B52 jet bomber production next year a "mistake" in this early phase of the nuclear missile era.

He made it clear he regarded the plane capable of delivering big nuclear bombs as a "devastating" tool to be retained in the face of Russia's new atomic tests.

He took sharp issue with Defence Secretary Robert McNamara's announcement that the $780,000,000 voted by Congress for B52, B70 and dynamo space glider programs would not be used.

It is a matter of speculation what will be done with Stalin's body, but there are three possibilities:

● Burial in Moscow's Novodevichy cemetery, where some of his victims lie. This, however, might involve the risk of desecration.

MOSCOW (UPI) — Josef Stalin suffered his ultimate posthumous humiliation yesterday when the 22nd congress of the Soviet Communist party unanimously decreed the removal of his embalmed body from the Lenin mausoleum in Red Square. (See stories Page 3.)

The move was a foreseen result of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's embittered public denunciation last week of Stalin's crimes, which took the lives of thousands of Soviet citizens during the three decades.

Khrushchev's recitation of the catalogue of Stalin's evils whipped public opinion into a state of frenzy and led to a wave of mass meetings demanding the end of the deification of Lenin by having Stalin share the mausoleum, the Soviet Union's most holy shrine.

A resolution demanding the removal of the body was swiftly and unanimously passed at Monday morning's session of the congress. Passage brought cries of: "This is correct, this is right!" from all parts of the hall.

Stalin died in March, 1953, presenting his successors with the problem of disposing of his body.

It took no less than five months to reach the decision to place it by the side of Lenin's body.

Stalin's closest associates, former foreign minister V. M. Molotov and former premier Georgi Malenkov controlled a majority of the party presidium and imposed their will upon Khrushchev, who always favored Stalin's burial elsewhere.

City Gets Petition

'Ban on Parking Stops Shoppers'

More than 100 persons have petitioned city council for the wholesale removal of rush-hour "no parking" signs from Victoria streets.

The petition, together with other letters on the subject, will be considered at a meeting of city public works committee at 9:15 a.m.

REPORT CALLED

Committee chairman, Ald. Geoffrey Edgell, favors removal of the signs and recently called for an engineering report on why the signs exist at all.

He contended that the ban on parking on certain city streets, particularly between 4 p.m. and 6 p.m., is taking customers away from city businessmen.

UNREASONABLE

Submitted by former city alderman Elmer McEwen, the petition claims it is unreasonable for city council to put the restrictions on rush hour parking when there is no off-street parking provided.

Mr. McEwen, a downtown restaurateur, also suggests that instead, city hall should ban left-hand turns on the streets for the rush hour period.

The petition asks for removal of both the 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. parking ban and the removal of the 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. ban.

SHOPPERS HIT

In a letter to the committee, Victoria pharmacist R. H. Davidson claimed the signs turned city streets into free-ways to the detriment of merchants.

Mr. Davidson claimed that there are few shoppers among the rush hour drivers, but that the parking ban stopped genuine shoppers finding somewhere to park.

TAPER OFF

"Our business begins to taper off about 3:30 p.m. since people are not inclined to wander off to shop so close to the deadline," he said.

"The amount of revenue involved in order that a group of people who are basically non-shoppers can get home 10 minutes earlier seems rather high."

OTHER TURNS TOO?

Mr. Davidson also suggested that left hand turns should be banned on Douglas and Government streets, between Belleville Street and the Town Hall Circle.

Scott Drive Starts

A meeting which began on an Oak Bay bus and moved into a rented hall last night was addressed by philosopher-mayorality candidate William Scott as he opened his campaign with a barrage against "the hypocrisy which prohibits legalized gambling."

"On the way to the meeting, on the bus, I travelled with a lot of people going to play bingo at the Memorial Arena," Mr. Scott said.

"I asked them if they wanted legalized gambling and they answered with a resounding 'yes!'"

He charged the B.C. government was hypocritical in that it gambled with the people's money but wouldn't allow the people to gamble themselves.

Premier Bennett, he claimed, "is the biggest gambler of them all."

"He gambled when he crossed the floor of the House, he gambled when he joined Social Credit, he gambled when he organized the B.C. ferry system."

"He gambled with the people's money and the gambles paid off."

"Why do they prevent us from doing the things they do?"

Mr. Scott challenged "certain members of the legal profession" to debate the question with him in public.

After $150,000 Loss

Restaurant Owners Plan To Rebuild Right Away

The Monterey Restaurant at Hillside and Douglas, gutted by a $150,000 fire shortly before dawn yesterday, will be rebuilt from insurance money, its operators said last night.

Maurice and Trudy Wincure, who took over operation of the restaurant last March, said about 20 employees will be out of work because of the fire.

Cause of the 3:20 a.m. blaze was still not known at press time. Arthur Owen-Jones from the fire marshal's office in Vancouver, who is here in connection with another fire, yesterday picked through the charred remains in search of a clue.

POLICE SPOTS FIRE

A police patrol car spotted the blaze and reported it to the fire department, said a fire department official.

Mr. Wincure said the Monterey will be rebuilt similar to the one destroyed by fire. Extent of insurance coverage won't be known until today when a safe containing the insurance papers is lifted from the rubble, he said.

LAST PATRONS

Among the last persons to use the restaurant was a group of policemen holding a private get-together Sunday night to celebrate promotions among members of the force.

Mr. Wincure said he and they arrived until 1:30 a.m. and everything seemed in order when he left.

As pre-dawn flames swept through the restaurant's wooden framework, parts of the main floor fell into the basement level where banquet and private party rooms were located.

MAIN FLOOR

On the main floor there had been a spacious kitchen, the mirrored Front Room, coffee shop and service facilities, business office, rotunda and cashier's office.

Heat and smoke were so intense firemen could not penetrate the building. Firemen poured water through windows and holes in the roof and walls.

TRAFFIC DIVERTED

Police diverted early morning traffic from the busy intersection. Incoming traffic on Hillside was turned south before it reached the roundabout and heavy trucks going south on Douglas were rerouted.

Firemen were still busy watering down burning debris in the basement late yesterday morning.

Taxpayers' Choice

Big Difference In City Hall Cost

City taxpayers have a choice between paying $660,000 for the B.C. Hydro-building or paying up to $2,000,000 to build a new city hall, Mayor Percy Scurrah said last night.

He made the comment after a closed meeting of city council which plumped solidly in favor of buying the B.C. Hydro building.

A plebiscite will be put to ratepayers during the Dec. 14 civic election, asking for approval of the scheme.

MONEY BYLAW

But if the scheme is rejected, then plans and detailed cost estimates will be prepared for a new building and a money bylaw put to voters later.

The council is ready to go ahead with this right now, we are convinced it's a good plan—but we feel it is such an important question that the people should have an opportunity to express their opinion," Mayor Scurrah said.

PAY-AS-YOU-GO

The scheme involves buying the B.C. Hydro building on the city's "pay-as-you-go" plan without the necessity of borrowing money.

The purchase would be financed by a down payment of $100,000 and payment of the rest by 1975 under a mortgage.

Analyses "After a thorough analysis, it is our opinion that we can pay off this new city hall with in five years without raising taxes one cent for it," Mayor Scurrah added.

He doubted that the building would be available until the end of 1962, at the earliest.

Keep Pets Inside

The RPCA yesterday appealed to pet lovers to keep their dogs and cats inside during Halloween festivities. Branch manager Norman McPherson said pets should be kept away from children in a quiet place. "The noise and dress-up children terrify them," he said.

K-Bomb 'Read' Here
Fallout Coming Soon

Victoria weather office recorded a sharp fluctuation in atmospheric pressure early Monday believed caused by the blast of the 50-megaton bomb in Russia.

SAME ELSEWHERE

Similar pressure increases were recorded at other weather stations across Canada about the same time 6:25 a.m.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the Pacific Naval Laboratory said radioactive fallout over Victoria is considered "quite low" in comparison to the average for the past month.

Monday's gigantic blast can be expected to show up in radiation counts here by next week-end.

An earthquake centred somewhere in the North Pacific Sunday had touched off premature reports that Russia had exploded the giant K-bomb (for Khrushchev).

City Offers Reward

Fearful Family Leaving Fire-Threatened Street

'Go Away, You Devil'
Answer to Arson Hint

A threat to burn another house on fire-menaced Cecelia Road came to light yesterday as one family, fearful for its safety, made plans to move out.

A woman injured in a fire on the street Sunday, which residents believe may have been set, was in good condition last night in hospital.

ON BACK PORCH

Latest blaze started early Sunday, apparently on the open back porch of the home of Max Miller, 489 Cecelia.

Firemen had to assist Mrs. Mildred Miller, 53, from the house and apply artificial respiration until she was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

NOTHING SERIOUS

Her son, Richard, 12, was helped out by firemen and neighbors. He suffered no serious effects.

Mr. Miller was attending a masquerade dance when the blaze broke out. There were some old newspapers and an old mattress on the porch.

KNOCK AT DOOR

The fire reminded neighbor Mrs. Steve Krancevic, 478 Cecelia, of a threat made to her last July, on the night of one of the earlier fires.

"It was about 2 in the morning," she told the Colonist, "and my husband had just gone back to bed after watching the fire when a man knocked at the door."

WANTED WINE

"He wanted me to get my husband up to give him some wine. At that time of night, I refused."

"First thing you know," he said, "we'll be burning up your house and your nice garden."

"You devil, you!" I said to him.

GO AWAY!

"You haven't a cent in the house and you've never worked in the garden. Go away!"

"After that, I had to see a doctor, my heart was so upset."

Mr. Miller, Mrs. G. C. Neilson, 480 Cecelia, and Stanley Olson, 482 Cecelia, explained yesterday why they fear their homes may be burned.

OTHER INCIDENTS

They said seven other incidents since early summer include destruction of Mr. Miller's lumber pile, the Neilsons' garage and half a shed at Builders Sash and Door, a grass fire and several apparent arson attempts at Builders and a home.

In addition, damage was $3,000 when wind blew a Builders lumber shed across the Olsons' home and two cars.

MOVING OUT

"We are moving out," says Mr. Olson.

MRS. STEVE KRANCEVIC ... threat recalled

Public Beach Pollution Anticipated

A breakwater at Cadboro Bay could result in wholesale pollution of the public beach with untreated sewage.

The transportation and harbor group of Victoria Chamber of Commerce was told this yesterday by Ian Sherwin, 2810 Sea View Road, a spokesman for the Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association.

He said the association was opposed to construction of a breakwater at Cadboro Bay.

"The sewerage system from the Uplands goes into Cadboro Bay and in the summer the water can get pretty ripe," Mr. Sherwin said.

The meeting decided to invite municipal engineers of Saanich and Oak Bay to the next meeting to discuss matters.

30-DAY BAN

On the advice of city solicitor T. P. O'Grady, council also voted unanimously to put a 30-day ban on the issuing of high-rise building permits, to allow time for the whole bylaw to be reviewed and the advisory planning commission's recommendations to be considered by council.

E. E. Pearlman, Victoria lawyer who represented the high-rise construction firm during council discussions, said last night it would be possible to move the building 3½ feet away from adjoining properties, whose owners had objected to being so close to the apartment building.

'Hams' Deny Jamming

Reports that amateur radio operators were jamming "bad music" radio station KITT have been branded as pure nonsense by the Victoria Short Wave Club.

William Martin, club president, said last night no radio "hams" in the Victoria area has an axe to grind with KITT and none is permitted to broadcast on the regular broadcast band or on any frequencies near the broadcast band.

during the day by two other tremors. All originated in the same area, pinpointed by Seattle seismologists as Queen Charlotte Sound.

The three shocks were not felt in the Queen Charlotte Islands, said Mr. White.

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

EAGLE-EYED: Announcer on the Tommy Hunter radio show from Toronto went down into the audience the other day and suddenly chorled: "And here's someone who has fallen asleep!"

"I'm not asleep," replied the man in the audience.

"Well," laughed the announcer, still as cheerful as ever, "your eyes are closed."

"Yes," said the man. "I'm blind."

The CBC must still be shuddering over that one. But not the announcer.

"Well," he said on the air the next day, "I see nobody fell asleep today."

town and scanned the menu. This included ham and eggs, bacon and eggs and bacon and egg sandwiches.

He asked for a ham and egg sandwich.

The waitress looked aghast. "You can't have that," she said. "It's not on the menu."

Our friend insisted and out she went, to ask the chef. But he refused as well. It just wasn't on the menu.

New Stand Taken By Reds

BERLIN (UPI) — The U.S. army yesterday ordered a fresh company of troops into West Berlin in the wake of new Communist claims that Allied access rights to the isolated city no longer exist.

The army said Company "A" of the 20th Engineer Battalion — recently ordered to Europe from the United States — will move to Berlin on the autobahn lifeline across East Germany to replace Company "D" of the 12th Engineer Battalion there.

TROOPS LEAVE

The announcement said five truck loads of troops from Company "D" rode to the West Sunday on the Berlin-Helmstedt highway and others will follow daily.

'BY INCREMENTS'

The troop exchange will take place "by increments," the army said. Informed sources said these movements of troops units both east and west on the highway from Berlin to the west indicated U.S. determination to continue demonstrating Allied ground access rights with combat vehicles.

'ONLY TEMPORARY'

The East German foreign affairs bulletin, distributed in East Berlin yesterday, said Allied Berlin access rights were of a "temporary and limited nature" and were valid no longer. It referred specifically to routes by land and air.

The army announcement of the ordered troop movement came as U.S. officials disclosed fresh Soviet harassment along West Berlin's autobahn lifeline with West Germany.

Queen May Call For More Troops

LONDON (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth will call on Parliament today to speed up the flow of British troops overseas and to stem the flood of migrants from Commonwealth nations, political sources said yesterday.

The sources said the requests will be contained in the traditional speech — written by the party in power — which is read by the British monarch to the opening session of Parliament.

MACMILLAN CONCERNED

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan is concerned over the government's limited power to call up army reserves in emergencies, the sources said. Especially vital now is the need to bolster the undermanned British Army of the Rhine in West Germany.

PLAN FROM U.S.

British newspapers said the stepped-up drive to bring the 50,000-man army up to full strength in view of the Berlin crisis is being made in response to a plea from U.S. deputy defence secretary Roswell Gilpatric.

CURB OPPOSED

Gilpatric returned to Washington last night after conferring with British Defence Minister Harold Watkinson.

The Opposition Labor party is expected to support Macmillan on the troop issue. But the socialists will oppose any attempt by the Conservative government to curb the flow of migrants from the Commonwealth nations.

Offers to Quit

General Rafael Trujillo, Jr., of the Dominican Republic offered yesterday to resign as army chief of staff if the Organization of American States lifted its sanctions against the republic.

Congo 'War' Starts

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Fighting has broken out between central government and Katanga troops and Premier Cyrille Adoula announced Monday a virtual declaration of war against the secessionist province.

The moderate premier of the Leopoldville government said a police action had been launched to liquidate Katanga's secession.

PLANES IN ACTION

Reports from Elisabethville, capital of Katanga, said Katanga planes had gone into action to help a company of troops fighting about 500 central government invaders at Kizamba, a border town in the northern part of the province.

United Nations officers in a report to Leopoldville said two Kasai province villages in central government territory were set afire by two Katanga bombers north of the fighting zone Sunday.

HEART CONDITION

Tshombe is in Geneva, ostensibly to see a doctor about a heart condition. Unofficial sources in Elisabethville said a Congolese force was advancing on Nyunzu, a Katanga town 300 miles north-east of Kizamba on the border with Kivu.

This force apparently is under orders of Antoine Gizenga, the leftist rebel of Stanleyville who is Adoula's vice-premier.

Canada Issues Call for Sanity

Big Bomb Termed Madness

(By AP and CP)

An angry free world deplored the Soviet super-bomb Monday as "a great leap backward toward anarchy and disaster."

Reacting with unusual swiftness, spokesmen for governments around the globe expressed shock and indignation at the Soviet 50-plus megaton explosion, carried out in defiance of an appeal from the United Nations General Assembly.

President Kennedy called the blast "a political rather than a military act." He described the Russian test as "primarily an incitement to fright and panic in the cold war" and said it does not affect the basic balance of nuclear power.

'LEAP BACKWARD'

At the United Nations, U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson said the U.S. delegation "deeply deplores this contempt for world opinion... The world has taken a great leap backward toward anarchy and disaster."

'WANTON DISREGARD'

In London, the foreign office said Britain "deplored" the explosion and shared "the indignation which will be universally felt at this wanton disregard for the welfare and safety of the human race."

'INSANE DECISION'

'REDS RESPONSIBLE'

The Dutch government said it "holds the Soviet Union responsible for the poisoning of the atmosphere." The Scandinavian countries were unanimous in criticism, and even in Finland, Russia's tiny neighbor, there were protests.

'DEEPLY WORRIED'

Swedish Prime Minister Tage Erlander said that the explosion was the only answer he had received to his appeal to Khrushchev to call off the test. Danish Prime Minister Viggo Kampmann said he had hoped the Soviet Union would refrain from exploding its huge weapon. Now, he said, "I can only say I am deeply worried."

First reaction among African nations came from President Hubert Maga of Dahomey. He said: "The arms race is a race to disaster."

West's Policy May Change Says Green

OTTAWA (CP) — The Western world may have to take a new look at its policies in dealing with Russia as a result of Moscow's "utter irresponsibility" in proceeding with nuclear tests, acting prime minister Howard Green said Monday.

In Tokyo, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he was shocked by Russia's monstrous disregard for the thinking of humanity in exploding the super-bomb.

He said that if Soviet nuclear explosions are intended to cause division among NATO nations, they have not succeeded.

'PROTEST USELESS'

Mr. Green did not elaborate on the suggestion that Western policy may need changes, and said there was no decision yet on Canada's next step.

Sending a protest note to Russia probably would be useless.

'WILL DO BEST'

"As for the next steps, I'm not in a position to say at the moment what can be done, but Canada will do her best to bring some sanity back into this old world of ours," he said.

'BACKWARD STEP'

Mr. Green, who presided at a cabinet meeting, told reporters that the explosion in the Russian Arctic Monday was a backward step demonstrating Russia's total disregard for world opinion.

ACTION URGED

Liberal leader Lester Pearson said in Toronto that Russia should be formally condemned by the United Nations.

He called on Canada to take the lead in organizing such an action, which would label the test a new form of aggression.

He termed the Soviet action "a crime against humanity."

Russia Broke Pact To Perfect Bomb

WACO, Tex. (UPI) — Dr.

Edward Teller, "father of the H-bomb," charged yesterday that the Russians made many underground nuclear tests in violation of the three-year agreement on atomic experiments.

He said the proof is the 50 megaton device they exploded yesterday. He said they could not have exploded it without undetected tests.

"It would have required months and even as long as a year to get ready for this test," Teller said at a news conference.

'PIECE OF PROGRESS'

Teller said the detonation of "such a big bomb certainly is a piece of progress, but very likely this is by no means the most important part."

"It is possible that they have tried out new principles developed in previous undetected experiments," Teller said.

'EXPOSED US'

He said these new principles made it "highly likely" the Soviets have developed an anti-missile missile.

"Such a development is particularly dangerous for us because it deprives us of the power to retaliate and exposes us to blackmail," Teller said.

Big Blast The Last?

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Soviet ambassador to Denmark Klement Levychkin said Monday the explosion of a nuclear bomb by the Soviet Union Monday marked the end of a series of Soviet nuclear tests.

U.S. High-Level A-Tests Now 'Must' Says Senator

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Henry Jackson, chairman of the Congress committee on atomic weapons, said yesterday the United States will have to resume nuclear tests in the atmosphere for the sake of security.

"We'll have to," he said. "There can be no question that the Soviets are improving the sophistication of their warheads to the point that the long lead we have may be in jeopardy."

The Washington Democrat said that the United States would not need a lot of tests, "and they would be of low yield."

Sen. Jackson called the Pentagon decision to halt B52 jet bomber production next year a "mistake" in this early phase of the nuclear missile era.

He made it clear he regarded the plane capable of delivering big nuclear bombs as a "devastating" tool to be retained in the face of Russia's new atomic tests.

He took sharp issue with Defence Secretary Robert McNamara's announcement that the $780,000,000 voted by Congress for B52, B70 and dynamo space glider programs would not be used.

Let Us Help Defend You Reds Offer

Girl, 5, Shot By Boy, 5

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Lynn Atkinson, 5, of Sardis, was in good condition in hospital Monday with a head wound, suffered when creased by a slug from a 12-gauge shotgun fired by a five-year-old neighbor boy.

RCMP said the solid slug travelled about 500 feet across the road from the neighbor's yard, smashed through a wall and entered Lynn's bedroom where she sat on her bed.

Stalin Suffers Ultimate Disgrace

The move was a foreseen result of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's embittered public denunciation last week of Stalin's crimes, which took the lives of thousands of Soviet citizens during three decades.

Khrushchev's recitation of the catalogue of Stalin's evils whipped public opinion into a state of frenzy and led to a wave of mass meetings demanding the end of the deification of Lenin by having Stalin share the mausoleum, the Soviet Union's most holy shrine.

A resolution demanding the removal of the body was swiftly and unanimously passed at Monday morning's session of the congress. Passage brought cries of: "This is correct, this is right," from all parts of the hall.

Stalin died in March, 1953, presenting his successors with the problem of disposing of his body.

It took no less than five months to reach the decision to place it by the side of Lenin's body.

Stalin's closest associates, former foreign minister V. M. Molotov and former premier Georgi Malenkov, controlled a majority of the party presidium and imposed their will upon Khrushchev, who always favored Stalin's burial elsewhere.

It is a matter of speculation

what will be done with Stalin's body, but there are three possibilities:

● Burial in Moscow's Novo-Devichy cemetery, where some of his victims lie. This, however, might involve the risk of desecration.

● Sending the body to Stalin's native village of Gori in the Caucasus.

● Cremation with the urn of ashes placed in the Kremlin wall.
